The Cat:

Postnatal Development of the Cat's Retina M. Vogel, 2012-12-06 References 59 Subject Index 65 6 Introduction The retina as an organ of perception of light colour shape and movement has been the subject of numerous and intensive light and electron microscopical investigations To date the interest in these has largely been concentrated on the structure of the mature retina and the genesis of its cellular elements The first exhaustive observations on the development of the retina in vertebrates were made by Babuchin 1863 Using the retinae of chicken embryos he showed that Millier's radial fibres and the ganglion cells are the first to develop while the receptor segments are the last Subsequently the early differentiation of Millier's radial fibres was often reaffirmed Cajal 1893 Meller 1968 Bhattacharjee and Sanyal 1975 and others Furthermore Babuchin had already indicated that the structural development in the area of the posterior pole is very rapid compared with those regions of the retina which are situated more peripherally Today when comparing results of electron microscopical investigations this fact is of particular importance since in each case only very limited areas of the retina can be examined Schultze 1867a b pointed out the uniformity of origin and the general classification of light perceiving elements into inner and outer segments thus contesting the hitherto generally held opinion that these structures like the pigment epithelium of the eye cup In 1881 Ogneff discovered the analogous ginate from the outer leaf mode of formation in birds and mammals

The Cat's Table Michael Ondaatje, 2011-10-04 In the early 1950s an eleven year old boy in Colombo boards a ship bound for England At mealtimes he is seated at the cat's table as far from the Captain's Table as can be with a ragtag group of insignificant adults and two other boys Cassius and Ramadhin As the ship makes its way across the Indian Ocean through the Suez Canal into the Mediterranean the boys tumble from one adventure to another bursting all over the place like freed mercury But there are other diversions as well one man talks with them about jazz and women another opens the door to the world of literature The narrator s elusive beautiful cousin Emily becomes his confidante allowing him to see himself with a distant eye for the first time and to feel the first stirring of desire Another Cat s Table denizen the shadowy Miss Lasqueti is perhaps more than what she seems And very late every night the boys spy on a shackled prisoner his crime and his fate a galvanizing mystery that will haunt them forever As the narrative moves between the decks and holds of the ship and the boy s adult years it tells a spellbinding story by turns poignant and electrifying about the magical often forbidden discoveries of childhood and a lifelong journey that begins unexpectedly with a spectacular sea voyage friend whether to bug her for playtime or to come running when he heard the car keys jingling This book is about one of Si's adventures an activity that started when his human friend Andrea grabbed those car keys for a long trip across the United States
