Hogg, 1988 This book traces the development of fortifications from the first primitive mud walls through the great castles of the Middle Ages to the present      Forts, Castles and Society in West Africa , 2018-10-02 Long regarded as disturbing remnants of the Atlantic slave trade the European forts and castles of West Africa have attained iconic positions as universally significant historical monuments and world heritage tourist destinations This volume of original contributions by leading Africanists presents extensive new historical views of the forts in Ghana and Benin providing both impetus and a scholarly basis for further research and fresh debate about their historical and geographical contexts their role in the slave trade the economic and political connections centred on the forts between the Europeans and local African polities and their place in variously focused heritage studies and endeavours Contributors are Hermann W von Hesse Daniel Hopkins Jon Olav Hove Ole Justesen Ineke van Kessel Robin Law John Kwadwo Osei Tutu Jarle Simensen Selena Axelrod Winsnes Larry Yarak      Forts and Castles of Ghana A. van Dantzig, 1999 The forts and castles of Ghana form a unique memorial to a precolonial period when representatives of European trading companies bartered as equals with African merchants It was a colourful episode of world history spanning four centuries from the fifteenth century Portuguese voyages of discovery to the beginnings of the imperial epoch This book traces the history of more than fifty forts castles and trading posts built on Ghana's coasts by various European nations Each entry is accompanied by a descriptive guide and black and white illustrations Albert van Dantzig originally from Holland has lived in Ghana since 1963 and is the senior lecturer in history at the University of Ghana he is the author of two previous books The Dutch Participation in the Slave Trade and The Dutch on the Guinea Coast 1680-1740      The History and Legends of Old Castles & Abbeys , 1850

Castles in Medieval Society Charles Coulson, 2004 In this challenging new book Charles Coulson overturns many of the traditional assumptions about the nature and purpose of castle building in the middle ages He demolishes the traditional belief that castles were overwhelmingly military in their function showing how this was simply one aspect of a more complicated whole He sets out to recreate the medieval understanding of castles as symbolically fortified places of all kinds from ancient walled post Roman towns and prestigious religious enclaves to transitory campaign forts Going back to the original sources Dr Coulson proposes a new and more subtle understanding of the function and symbolism of castles as well as vivid insights into the lives of the people who inhabited them Fortresses were only occasionally caught up in war but constantly were central to the ordinary life of all classes of the nobility and gentry of widows and heiresses of prelates and clergy of peasantry and townspeople alike Castles in Medieval Society presents and explores this broad social panorama

Henry VIII's Coastal Artillery Fort at Camber Castle, Rye, East Sussex Martin Biddle,Jonathan Hiller,Ian Scott,2014-02-15 Camber Castle is located on the south coast of England a short distance to the south of the town of and Cinque Port of Rye Largely constructed between 1539 and 1543 it was an elaborate artillery fortification that represented an important element of Henry VIII s Device or coastal defence network put in place from 1539 as a response to the threat of invasion following England s breach with Rome The castle was operational for 100 years By the 1630s the steady advance of the coastline had left it stranded well inland from the sea This combined with changes in the concept of artillery fortification resulted in its decommissioning in 1637 Unusually Camber Castle was not adapted for continued use through the 18th and 19th centuries and survives as an example of a largely unmodified Henrician artillery fort It displays several clear and discrete phases of construction which reflect changes in thinking about the design of fortifications The construction phase of 1539 40 under the direction of Stephen von Haschenperg is of particular interest since it represents the first attempt to build in England an artillery fortress of ultimately Italian inspiration Doubts about the effectiveness of von Haschenperg s design led however to a complete remodelling of the castle s defences along more conservative lines undertaken in 1542 3 The castle which is in the guardianship of English Heritage has seen numerous campaigns of research survey and excavation This volume draws together all the available evidence to provide a full and synthesised account of the current state of knowledge regarding this monument It includes a revised and expanded version of Martin Biddle s authoritative study originally published in The History of the King s Works Full reports are also included on the artefact and animal bone assemblages which are of considerable importance for the early post medieval period These include the extensive 16th and early 17 century assemblage of English and imported pottery a German ceramic tile stove a wide range of 16th and 17th century military artefacts and a significant collection of vessel glass including facon de Venise cristallo The animal bone collection is a useful benchmark for the zoo archaeology of post medieval England and provides evidence for early livestock improvements There is also a detailed review of the surviving building account for von Haschenperg s fortifications      History of Henry County, Indiana ,1884      Musical Courier and Review of Recorded Music ,1915      The History, Topography, and Antiquities of the Isle of Wight William Henry Davenport Adams,1856      Notes on the Early History of the Royal Regiment of Artillery Cleaveland (Colonel.),1839      The History of Dover Castle William Darell,1786      Two Views from Christiansborg Castle Vol II H.C.
