The People's Game? S. Morrow, 2003-09-30 The beautiful game is big business. Football leagues worldwide are being dominated by clubs who are becoming richer and more powerful. Enormous corporate investment deals with media giants, huge volumes of merchandising, and dedicated TV channels mean that football teams are as concerned with the affairs of the boardroom as what is going on on the pitch. In this dynamic new book, Stephen Morrow examines the changing face of football, looking at issues such as the role of the stock exchange, the viability of the stakeholder approach, the new economics of football, including the role of media firms, and the social impact of the sport.

She's even joining forces with a cheerleader to help spread the word and raise funds. Coming to Terms William Safire, 2012-01-04 When William Safire delineates the difference between misinformation and disinformation or distances himself from clichés, people sit up and take notice. Which is not to say that Safire's readers always take the punning pundit at his word; they don't, and he's got the letters to prove it. Among the entries in Coming to Terms, this all-new collection of Safire's On Language columns, you'll read the repartee of Lexicographic Irregulars, great and small. John Haim of New York sets in concrete what properly to call a cement truck, while Charlton Heston challenges an interpretation of Hamlet's "to take arms against a sea of troubles," and Gene Shalit passes along his favorite Yogi Berraism. Bringing them all together are dozens of Safire's most illuminating and witty columns, from Right Stuffing to Getting Whom. When William Safire comes to terms, there's never a dull moment.
