Attachment and Bonding C. Sue Carter, Lieselotte Ahnert, K. E. Grossmann, Sarah B. Hrdy, Michael E. Lamb, 2015-10-06 Scientists from different disciplines including anthropology psychology psychiatry pediatrics neurobiology endocrinology and molecular biology explore the concepts of attachment and bonding from varying scientific perspectives Attachment and bonding are evolved processes the mechanisms that permit the development of selective social bonds are assumed to be very ancient based on neural circuitry rooted deep in mammalian evolution but the nature and timing of these processes and their ultimate and proximate causes are only beginning to be understood In this Dahlem Workshop Report scientists from different disciplines including anthropology psychology psychiatry and behavioral biology come together to explore the concepts of attachment and bonding from diverse perspectives In their studies they seek to understand the causes or the consequences of attachment and bonding in general and their different qualities in individual development in particular They address such questions as biobehavioral processes in attachment and bonding early social attachment and its influences on later patterns of behavior bonding later in life and adaptive and maladaptive or pathological outcomes The studies confirm that social bonds have consequences for virtually all aspects of behavior and may be protective in the face of both physical and emotional challenges

Violence and Crime in the Family Sampson Lee Blair, Sheila Royo Maxwell, 2015-09-07 Societies often struggle to address crime and violence within families as such behaviors are often unreported and even concealed This multidisciplinary volume of CPFR addresses topics such as child abuse spousal violence incarceration family life and delinquency intrafamily violence and policy related issues pertaining to family violence

Immigration and School Safety Anthony A. Peguero, Jennifer M. Bondy, 2021-03-22 Immigration and School Safety utilizes a multidisciplinary approach to expose the complex relationship between immigration and school safety in the United States It addresses not only individual intrapersonal and environmental factors but also distant level conditions that are relevant to the experiences of immigrant children and connected to school safety Twenty five percent of all youth in U S schools have at least one immigrant parent and that percentage is expected to increase to 33 percent by 2040 A wide array of factors including but not limited to laws public and political discourses educational policies interpersonal relationships socioeconomic status English language proficiency citizenship legal status family characteristics race and ethnicity generational status nationality religion and gender contribute to the marginalizing experiences of children of immigrants at school With the rapid growth of students in immigrant families in U S schools any effort to address school violence and implement school safety policies must consider barriers associated with the unique educational experiences of that segment This book highlights the often overlooked importance of immigration as a mediating factor in explaining both violence and victimization and provides a blueprint for integrating immigration and criminology theories into evidence based efforts toward ensuring safety for all students The authors demonstrate that immigration matters significantly in school violence and safety concerns and illustrate why research that integrates immigration with criminology theories is needed to understand the causes and correlates of school violence The book will appeal to a wide array of individuals including academics educators policymakers practitioners social workers parents and stakeholders who are committed to addressing educational disparities and inequities associated with immigration and school safety
