Danto,1973 Suicides in Prison Alison Liebling,2002-09-11 The suicide rate in prisons in England and

Wales is 40 per 100 000 four times that of the general population How can this be explained Recent prison suicides have aroused much public concern and media attention yet there has been very little research examining their true cause or nature Previous studies have tended to rely exclusively on official statistics and prison records and have had little effect in practice Suicides in Prison is the first major study in this area to draw directly on the experiences of both prisoners and staff The interviews conducted by the author help to cast new light on the circumstances which can lead to suicide or attempted suicide The author provides further evidence to support the growing recognition that suicide is not an exclusively psychiatric problem The coping mechanisms and social support given to the people involved can have a crucial role to play Alison Liebling also shows how serious difficulties in the management of prisoners at risk of suicide may be exacerbated by problems of communication between departments and that prison officers may lack the necessary training to play a potentially major role in suicide prevention Most importantly if staff perceptions and attitudes are not addressed any attempt to improve procedures may well be ineffective Suicides in Prison traces the recent history of the problem and provides the first major theoretical discussion of the nature and causes of suicide in prison

Preventing Self-injury and Suicide in Women's Prisons Tammi Walker, Graham Towl, 2016-02-10 In 2015 the landmark suicide of the 100th woman to kill herself in prison custody passed largely unnoticed This book by two experts sets out to redress the balance by examining all aspects of the history present practices causes and prevention prospects connected to this tragic chain of events A long overdue analysis of a subject that is at last beginning to receive enhanced scrutiny Focuses on both women and adolescent girls in custody Looks at psychological demographic environmental and clinical factors The first book of its kind Reviews Walker and Towl's new book is a really welcome addition to the suicide and self injury literature It covers considerable ground in a concise and accessible way Not only does it provide great coverage of the key issues around suicide and self injury in women's prisons it provides really helpful tips on supporting women on staff training and on managing the aftermath of a suicide I highly recommend this book Professor Rory O Connor University of Glasgow Very helpful in identifying the strengths and weaknesses of current practice and understanding why reductions in the prison population and a holistic approach to care are vital in saving lives Dr Jo Borrill University of Westminster The question that arises from this book is How can we as a society heap any more punishment on people who are already punishing themselves Mark Johnson MBE author of Wasted Sphere 2008 founder of CanDo Coffee and the charity User Voice The authors bring an often neglected subject into sharp relief and refreshingly they are not afraid to make some strong evidence based assertions about the direction of penal policy and gaps in our understanding Anita Dockley Research Director Howard League for Penal Reform
