Cottage Country in Transition Greg Halseth, 1998-09-30 Using the Rideau Lakes region of eastern Ontario and the Cultus Lake area of southwestern British Columbia as case studies Greg Halseth examines the ways in which economic political and social power affect community change He focuses on specific issues such as residential change land use planning property taxation and social organization Moving beyond empirical research Halseth sets the changes occurring in these communities within a broader intellectual context of community power and commodification of the rural idyll He pays particular attention to how general processes and pressures work themselves out in particular places Written in an accessible style Cottage Country in Transition will be of great interest to rural geographers planners sociologists and community researchers as well as to rural residents and cottage owners

A Timeless Place Julia Harrison, 2013-09-01 As Julia Harrison's first summer living in Ontario approached she became aware of the culture of the cottage While friends and family talked of nothing but languid afternoons on the dock and bartered for as many lakeside days as possible Harrison marveled at the less attractive components of cottage life the clogged highways en route and the unrelenting investment of money and labour that the idyllic escapes demanded Curious about the rich and passionate meaning these places seemed to hold Harrison studied cottagers in the Haliburton region over the course of seven years Thoughtfully and engagingly written A Timeless Place considers the cottage family as a place where memories are treasured national identity is celebrated spiritual balance is restored and even a few dark secrets are kept

recent work in cultural history landscape studies in geography and art history and environmental history to explore what happens when external agendas confront local realities a story central to the Canadian experience Explorers fishers artists and park planners all were forced to respond to the unique contours of this inland sea their encounters defined a regional identity even as they constructed a popular image for the Bay in the national imagination Jacket The View from Vermont Blake A. Harrison, 2006 With its small native population proximity to major metropolitan areas and bucolic rural beauty Vermont was fated to be a tourist mecca forever associated in the popular imagination with maple syrup fall colors and ski bunnies Tourism for good and ill has always been the decisive factor in the conception of rural Vermont What is surprising however is the degree to which we have accepted this notion of rural Vermont as a somehow timeless entity Blake Harrison's rich and rewarding study instead presents the construction of Vermont's landscape as a complex and ever changing dynamic informed by progressive modernist and reformist thought competing views of economic expansion rural and urban prejudice and social exclusion and more recently by land use planning and environmentalism This broad based study includes the early history of Vermont tourism the concomitant abandonment of farms with the rise of the summer home the creation of an unspoiled Vermont from billboards at least the impact of Vermont's ski industry on tradition bound tourism and later efforts to legislate growth and protect an increasingly static ideal of a rural Vermont While grounded within a specific Vermont view Harrison has much to contribute to broader studies of rural places tourism and landscapes in American culture His analysis of how physical landscapes affect and are affected by our imagined landscape and the insight afforded by his juxtaposition of leisure and labor will deeply inform our understanding of rural tourist landscapes for years to come This is a truly interdisciplinary work that will satisfy and challenge historians and geographers alike Real Estate Market Dynamics in the Kickapoo River Valley, Wisconsin 1979-1998 Pat James Connolly, 2001 Ontario Geography, 1990 Leisure, Plantations, and the Making of a New South Julia Brock, Daniel Vivian, 2015-10-01 Leisure Plantations and the Making of New South investigates the social architectural and environmental history of sporting plantations in the South Carolina lowcountry and the Red Hills region of southeast Georgia and northern Florida Although plantations figure prominently in histories of the post emancipation South historians have paid little attention to the redevelopment of plantations for non agricultural use By examining the two largest concentrations of sporting plantations on the south Atlantic coast this collection explores questions about historical memory of slavery race relations material culture and the environment during the first half of the twentieth century Old-House Journal, 2004-07 Old House Journal is the original magazine devoted to restoring and preserving old houses For more than 35 years our mission has been to help old house owners repair restore update and decorate buildings of every age and architectural style Each issue explores hands on restoration techniques practical architectural guidelines historical overviews and homeowner stories all in a trusted authoritative voice The Table Book, of Daily Recreation and Information: William Hone, 1891 Resorts and Ports

Peter Borsay, John K. Walton, 2011-10-14 Histories of seaports and coastal resorts have usually been kept in separate compartments This book brings them together and looks at how resort development affected historic ports during the rise and development of the seaside holiday in Europe from the 18th century to the 20th and what the attributes of ports fishing harbour crafts the whiff of the exotic fishermen s homes and families contributed to the attractions of resorts Case studies drawn from across Europe from Wales and the Netherlands to Norway Latvia and Spain bring original perspectives to bear on these histories and relationships and consider their influence on seaside heritage and regeneration at a time when coastal settlements are increasingly using their past to secure their future The book will interest academics in tourism studies history geography and cultural studies as well as provide essential information and analysis for policy makers in coastal regeneration
