counterhistory of the academic study of religion an alternative to standard accounts that have failed to link the field of comparative religion with either the power relations or the historical contingencies of the imperial project In developing a material history of the study of religion Chidester documents the importance of African religion the persistence of the divide between savagery and civilization and the salience of mediations imperial colonial and indigenous in which knowledge about religions was produced He then identifies the recurrence of these mediations in a number of case studies including Friedrich Max Müller's dependence on colonial experts H Rider Haggard and John Buchan's fictional accounts of African religion and W E B Du Bois's studies of African religion By reclaiming these theorists for this history Chidester shows that race rather than theology was formative in the emerging study of religion in Europe and North America Sure to be controversial Empire of Religion is a major contribution to the field of comparative religious studies
