Archaeological Semiotics Robert W. Preucel, 2010-04-26 This interdisciplinary book examines archaeology's engagement with semiotics from its early structuralist beginnings to its more recent Peircian encounters It represents the first sustained engagement with Peircian semiotics in archaeology as well as the first discussion of how pragmatic anthropology articulates with anthropological archaeology Its central thesis is that archaeology is a distinctive kind of semiotic enterprise one devoted to giving meaning to the past in the present through the study of materiality It compliments standard studies of linguistics and reformulates contemporary theories of material culture Providing an introduction to Saussure and a review of his legacy across structural symbolic and cognitive anthropology Preucel goes on to present the Peircian alternative and highlights its influence on pragmatic anthropology Of special interest are the discussions of the interrelations of structuralism and processual archaeology poststructuralism and postprocessual archaeologies and cognitive science and cognitive archaeology The author offers two original case studies demonstrating how material culture pragmatically mediates social relations one focusing on the aftermath of the Pueblo Revolt from 1680 1694 and the other on the New England utopian community of Brook Farm from 1842 1846 Throughout his analysis Preucel emphasizes the close links between archaeology and other social sciences But he also contends that archaeology by virtue of the powerful ideological character of the past can open up new spaces for discourse and dialogue about meaning and in the process make a valuable contribution to contemporary semiotics

Coming Up Roses (Meet Me at the Fair, Book 1) Rachel Wilson, 2020-10-06 A devil may care big city newspaperman meets his match in the delightfully heart warming Americana Romance Coming Up Roses by Rachel Wilson 1893 Chicago World's Fair Rose Ellen Gilhooley would do just about anything for Buffalo Bill Cody the showman who plucked her out of poverty in Deadwood KS then turned her into one of the stars of his Wild West Show So Rose agrees when journalist H L May proposes writing a series of articles about her at the Chicago World's Fair However the brash and wildly enthusiastic newspaperman who wants more than a business relationship quickly discovers that his smooth words will never win the feisty trick rider's affections. So he turns to Annie Oakley and a few of Rose's Sioux friends for help but it's an unseen enemy's sudden and dangerous kidnapping that creates the common ground for this unlikely love. Publisher's Note: Set in a real time and place, this light and humorous romance captures the nostalgia of the American Gay 90s in Chicago and is sure to be enjoyed by readers of historical American romance. The Meet Me at the Fair Series. Coming Up Roses Just North of Bliss: A Bicycle Built for Two. Unequal Britain at Work. Alan Felstead, Duncan Gallie, Francis Green, 2015. This book provides the first systematic assessment of trends in inequality in job quality in Britain in recent decades. It assesses the pattern of change drawing on the nationally representative Skills and Employment Surveys (SES) carried out at regular intervals from 1986 to 2012. These surveys collect data from workers themselves, thereby providing a unique picture of trends in job quality. The book is concerned both with wage and non-wage inequalities, focusing in particular on skills training, task discretion, work intensity, organizational participation, and job security, and how these inequalities relate to class, gender, contract status, unionisation, and type of employer. Amid rising wage inequality, there has nevertheless been some improvement in the relative job quality experienced by women, part-time employees, and temporary workers. Yet the book reveals the remarkable persistence of major inequalities in the working conditions of other categories of employee across periods of both economic boom and crisis. Beginning with a theoretical overview, before describing the main data series, this book examines how job quality differs between groups and across time. Sourcebook for Sundays and Seasons 2008. Todd Williamson, 2007.

Worklife Balance. Barbara Hobson, 2013-10-24. Across welfare societies, we have seen the emergence of policies and norms for work-life balance alongside rising expectations among working parents to be able to participate in employment and caregiving and to have more time for family life and leisure. Yet despite this value placed upon work-life balance, working parents face increasing work demands as well as rising numbers of insecure and precarious jobs, both of which produce a deepening sense of economic uncertainty in everyday life which has been intensified in the current period of financial crises. The agency and capabilities gap addresses these tensions in work-life balance within families, workplace organizations, and policy frameworks. Inspired by Amartya Sen's capabilities approach, this volume considers not just what individuals do but also their scope of alternatives to make other choices. It includes rich contextualized studies across Western and Eastern European countries and Japan, with a focus on gendered agency inequalities for work-life balance. New York Magazine, 1978-01-16. New York Magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country. With award-winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion, the magazine's consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea.
