Sunrise A Song Of Two Humans:

Sunrise Lucy Fischer, 2020-10-01 Sunrise A Song of Two Humans 1927 is one of the most historically pivotal of all films. The first American film of the celebrated German director F W Murnau, Sunrise tells the story of a love triangle between characters named only as The Man, The Wife, and The Woman from the City. Lucy Fischer's compelling study of the film shows how it mediates between German expressionism and American melodrama, the avantgarde and popular film, silent cinema and talkies. A lavish and sumptuous production famous for its vast specially constructed sets and one of the first feature films with a synchronized musical score and sound effects soundtrack, Sunrise was one of early Hollywood's most ambitious undertakings. In her foreword to this new edition, Lucy Fischer considers the film as an abiding classic of world cinema.

Sunrise Lucy Fischer, 1998-07 The first film made in America by the celebrated German director F W Murnau, Sunrise mediates between German expressionism and American melodrama, the avant garde and popular fiction, silent cinema and talkies. J. Sunrise [franz.] Karl Mayer, 1974 Cinematography in the Weimar Republic Paul Matthew St. Pierre, 2016-08-15 In film history, director/cinematographer collaborations were on a labor spectrum with the model of the contracted camera operator in the silent era and that of the cinematographer in the sound era. But in Weimar era German filmmaking, 1919-33, a short period of intense artistic activity and political and economic instability, these models existed side by side due to the emergence of camera operators as independent visual artists and collaborators with directors. Berlin in the 1920s was the chief site of the interdisciplinary avant garde of the Modernist movement in the visual, literary, architectural, design, typographical, sartorial, and performance arts in Europe. The Weimar Revolution that arose in the aftermath of the November 1918 Armistice and that established the Weimar Republic informed and agitated all of the art movements such as Expressionism, Dada, the Bauhaus, Minimalism, Objectivism, Verism, and Neue Sachlichkeit. New Objectivity. Among the avant garde forms of these new stylistically and culturally negotiated arts, the cinema was foremost, and since its inception had been a radical experimental practice in new visual technologies that proved instrumental in changing how human beings perceived movement, structure, perspective, light, exposure, temporal duration, continuity, spatial orientation, human postural, facial, vocal, and gestural displays, and their own spectatorship, as well as conventions of storytelling like narrative, setting, theme, character, and structure. Whereas most of the arts mobilized into schools, movements, institutions, and other structures, cinema, a collaborative art, tended to organize around its ensembles of practitioners. Historically, the silent film era, 1895-1927, is associated with auteurs, the precursors of François Truffaut and other filmmakers in the 1960s, actuality filmmakers and pioneers like R. W. Paul and Fred, and Joe Evans in England; Auguste and Louis Lumière and Georges Méliès in France; and Charles Chaplin and Buster Keaton in America, who by managing all the compositional, executional, and editorial facets of film production—scripting, directing, acting, photographing, set, costume, and lighting design, editing, and marketing—imposed their personal vision or authorship on the film. The dichotomy of the auteur and the production ensemble established a production hierarchy in most filmmaking In formative German silent film however this hierarchy was less rank or class driven because collaborative partnerships took precedence over single authorship Whereas in silent film production in most countries the terms filmmaker and director were synonymous in German silent film the plural term filmemacherin connoted both directors and cinematographers along with the rest of the filmmaking crew Thus German silent filmmakers principle contribution to the new medium and art of film was less the representational iconographies of Expressionist New Objective and Naturalist styles than the executorial practice of co authorship and co production in distinctive cinematographer director partnerships such as those of cinematographer Theodor Sparkuhl and director Ernst Lubitsch Fritz Arno Wagner with F W Murnau Fritz Lang and G W Pabst Rudolf Mat with Carl Theodor Dreyer Guido Seeber with Lang and Pabst and Carl Hoffmann with Lang and Murnau

Silent Cinema Brian J. Robb, 2007-09-28 Silent cinema was never truly silent as performances were more often than not accompanied by live music and the noise of enthusiastic audiences Yet silent cinema is regarded as a specific era in the history of the medium and often as a separate art form in its own right New York Times bestselling author Brian J Robb s lively resource traces how from the origins of cinema onwards to the coming of sound in 1929 with The Jazz Singer many of the ground rules of cinema were laid and filmmaking techniques developed including editing and special effects styles of acting and filming on location Studying the earliest origins of cinema including the stars comedians and directors who became popular from the late Victorian era to the end of the 1920s including D W Griffiths Cecil B DeMille and Sergei Eisenstein this book also includes a look at the Hollywood scandals of the time The accompanying DVD includes lengthy excerpts from films such as The Perils of Pauline Phantom of the Opera Salome and Son of the Sheik

The Limits of Auteurism Nicholas Godfrey,2018-05-10 The New Hollywood era of the late 1960s and early 1970s has become one of the most romanticized periods in motion picture history celebrated for its stylistic boldness thematic complexity and the unshackling of directorial ambition The Limits of Auteurism aims to challenge many of these assumptions Beginning with the commercial success of Easy Rider in 1969 and ending two years later with the critical and commercial failure of that film s twin progeny The Last Movie and The Hired Hand Nicholas Godfrey surveys a key moment that defined the subsequent aesthetic parameters of American commercial art cinema The book explores the role that contemporary critics played in determining how the movies of this period were understood and how in turn strategies of distribution influenced critical responses and dictated the conditions of entry into the rapidly codifying New Hollywood canon Focusing on a small number of industrially significant films this new history advances our understanding of this important moment of transition from Classical to contemporary modes of production

Post-Production and the Invisible Revolution of Filmmaking George Larkin,2018-12-07 Post Production and the Invisible Revolution of Filmmaking studies the discourses surrounding post production as well as the aesthetic effects of its introduction during the 1920s and 1930s by exploring the philosophies and issues faced by practitioners during this transitional transformative period The introduction of post production during the transition from silent cinema to the synchronized sound era in the 1920s American studio system resulted in what has been a previously unheralded and invisible revolution in filmmaking Thereafter a film no longer arose from a live and variable combination of audio and visual in the theater as occurred during the silent film era where each exhibition was a singular event The new system of post production effectively shifted control of a film s final form from the theater to the editing room With this new process filmmakers could obtain and manipulate an array of audio elements and manufacture a permanent soundtrack This transition made possible a product that could be easily mass produced serving both to transform and homogenize film presentation fundamentally creating a new art form With detailed research and analysis and nearly 50 illustrations this book is the ideal resource for students and researchers of film history and post production What Nails It Greil Marcus,2024-08-27 From a celebrated critic a heartfelt and adventurous reflection on the art of writing about art Essential for fans of Marcus and fruitful reading for anyone reflecting on the mysteries of art Kirkus Reviews starred review Writers write They can t help it They can t not In this spirited book the revered cultural critic Greil Marcus explains his compulsion as a yearning for fun for play and most of all to discover to feel the moment when a creation speaks in its own voice Marcus reflects on over half a century spent honing the art of attention from his California childhood overshadowed by mystery and silence surrounding his father s death
