The Canadian Political System Richard J. Van Loon, Michael S. Whittington, 1984      Political Support in Canada Richard A. Preston, E. Donald Briggs, 1983 All governments require popular support and in democracies this support must be maintained by noncoercive means This book analyzes the question of political support in Canada a country in which the maintenance of the integrity of the political community has been and continues to be in the words of the editors the single most salient aspect of the country's political life The nature of popular support is first considered in broad theoretical terms then from the standpoint of those agents most responsible for maintaining support in Canadian democracy then as influenced by particular issues and policies and finally as it affects and is affected by the separatist movement in Quebec      The Canadian Political System Richard J. Federalism in Canada Thomas O. Hueglin, 2021 Federalism in Canada tells the turbulent story of shared sovereignty and divided governance from Confederation to the present time It does so with three main objectives in mind The first objective is to convince readers that federalism is the primary animating force in Canadian politics and that it is therefore worth engaging with its complex nature and dynamic The second objective is to bring into closer focus the contested concepts about the meaning and operation of federalism that all along have been at the root of the divide between English Canada and Quebec in particular The third objective is to give recognition to the trajectory of Canada's Indigenous peoples in the context of Canadian federalism from years of abusive neglect to belated efforts of inclusion The book focuses on the constitution with its ambiguous allocation of divided powers the pivotal role of the courts in balancing these powers and the political leaders whose interactions oscillate between intergovernmental conflict and cooperation This focus on executive leadership and judicial supervision is framed by considerations of Canada's regionalized political economy and cultural diversity giving students an interesting and nuanced view of federalism in Canada

Barry Cullingworth, 2002-09-26 The Political Culture of Planning is written for two quite distinct readerships The main body of the book synthesizes a mass of information to provide an overview of a complex and amorphous field This material is designed to meet the needs of students who require a succinct account of the American system of land use planning These readers can ignore the notes For those who are embarking upon a much wider and deeper study of land use planning in the US the notes are crucial they provide the guideposts to an immensely rich literature The first four parts of the text present the main issues of land use planning in the US Part 1 assesses the US zoning system The introductory chapter discusses the meaning of zoning and its difference from planning the primacy of local governments the constitutional framework and the role of the courts Chapter two provides the historical background to zoning and an outline of the classic Euclid case Chapter three discusses the objectives and nature of zoning and the use which local governments

Ringling in the Common Love of Good Kerry Badgely, 2000 Badgely archivist National Archives of Canada explores the rise and fall of the United Farmers of Ontario UFO a party that won a majority in the 1919 provincial election and formed a ruling coalition with the Independent Labor Party The author challenges views that the UFO was a group of impatient liberals or self interested commodity producers and instead argues that the UFO developed alternative economic political and social visions that led to internal struggles ushering in the demise of a movement fighting for democratic change Canadian card order number C99 9010468 Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR      Ethnicity and Aboriginality Michael D. Levin, 1993-12-15 Ethnonationalism is a phenomenon of great importance in many parts of the world today In this collection of papers nine distinguished anthropologists focus on Canadian and international case studies to show how ethnonational claims of cultural groups have been expressed and developed in specific historical and political situations from observations of Quebec to the former Soviet Union through problems of the Australian aborigines Malay identity the Avaglogoli in Western Kenya and ethnic cultures in Nigeria the essays reflect the complexity of the claims and aspirations of different groups Some deal with intractable demand for sovereignty others with solutions that attempt to achieve a level of autonomy and recognition short of sovereignty The intellectual history of the right of self determination is little more than 200 years old It is only since that time that the ideal of popular sovereignty by any group that views itself as a people became an accepted view These writers have used a paper by Walker Connor The Politics of Ethnonationalism as a foil against which to develop their own theses Connor argues that claims to self determination based on ethnic identity present problems to all but a few states and since these claims are unlikely to be satisfied ethnonationalism is disruptive of political order The papers in this volume do not accept his negative conclusions although they share a sense of secession and division are less worthy outcomes than pluralist structures Nevertheless in Valery Tishkov s discussion of the former Soviet Union secession appears to be the only solution Since ethnonationalism will continue to be a political issue for some time these papers form a significant base for future political debate      Energy Advisory Committees United States.
