The Handbook of Organizing Economic, Ecological and Societal Transformation Elke Weik, Chris Land, Ronald Hartz, 2024-08-19 This handbook gathers contributors from different disciplines of the social sciences such as organization and management studies sociology anthropology and political science to constructively discuss the kinds of transformations we need to see in coming years These transformations concern the way we work produce and consume but also the way in which we think about work production and consumption In an explicit rejection of the demand that the social sciences provide quick fixes the contributors of this handbook discuss possible solutions in a critical and comprehensive manner and with an eye to both their environmental and societal implications The handbook is divided into four parts Opening up futures Techno economic transformations at work Sustainable environmental transformation and Radical democratic futures The handbook is of interest to all critical academics interested in constructive suggestions regarding necessary societal transformations

Social Scientists Confronting Global Crises Jean M. Bartunek, 2021-12-24 Social scientists develop knowledge that is directly pertinent to global challenges and crises and need to be included in initiatives taken to address them This book is a step towards such presentation and involvement Global crises are crucially intertwined with our relationships groups organizations communities institutions how they collaborate with each other how they compete with each other and the dynamics intermingled with these These dimensions are inadequately addressed by scientists and insufficiently recognized by other stakeholders With contributions from a global array of respected social scientists this shortform book contributes to deep understandings of social phenomena associated with global crises In illuminating interventions via those dealing with challenges and crises first hand the book also shows the ongoing personal development required to address global crises in productive ways This book will be of interest to social scientists researchers academics organizational consultants and students in the fields of management especially those focusing on global challenges and crises It will also be a useful resource for practitioners and policy makers

Science of Goal Formulation Stuart A. Umpleby, 1990-12-01 This work contains the proceedings of a meeting held by 18 American and Soviet scholars on the state of cybernetics and systems theory in their two countries American interest focused on the observation of systems whilst Soviet interest focused on mathematical modelling

A Science of Impurity Christopher Hamlin, 1990-01-01 Alternative Pathways in Science and Industry David J. Hess, 2007-03-16 In Alternative Pathways in Science and Industry David Hess examines how social movements and other forms of activism affect innovation in science technology and industry Synthesizing and extending work in social studies of science and technology social movements and globalization Hess explores the interaction of grassroots environmental action and mainstream industry and offers a conceptual framework for understanding it Hess proposes a theory of scientific and technological change that considers the roles that both industry and grassroots consumers play in setting the research agenda in science and technology and he identifies alternative pathways by which social movements can influence scientific and technological innovation He analyzes four of these pathways industrial opposition movements organized against targeted technologies as in the campaign against nuclear energy technology and product oriented movements which press for alternatives as does the organic food movement localism which promotes local ownership as in buy local campaigns and access pathways which support a more equitable distribution of resources Within each pathway Hess examines reforms in five different areas agriculture energy waste and manufacturing infrastructure and finance The book s theoretical argument and empirical evidence demonstrate the complex pattern of incorporation of grassroots innovations and transformation of alternative ownership structures and the alternative products themselves that has characterized the relationship of industry and activism Hess's analysis of alternative pathways to change suggests ways economic organizations could shift to a more just and sustainable course in the twenty first century

Communication for Social Change Anthology Alfonso Gumucio Dagron, Thomas Tufte, 2006 Contains nearly 200 readings published between 1927 and 2005 in English or translated from other languages on the historical roots and pioneering thinking regarding communication for social change Covers a variety of topics including the radio tv and other mass communication information and communication technology the digital gap the formation of an information society national information policies participatory decision making communication of development pedagogy and entertainment education HIV AIDS communication for prevention etc The Organisation of Knowledge in Victorian Britain Martin Daunton, 2005-05-26 This collection of essays explores the questions of what counted as knowledge in Victorian Britain who defined knowledge and the knowledgeable by what means and by what criteria During the Victorian period the structure of knowledge took on a new and recognizably modern form and the disciplines we now take for granted took shape The ways in which knowledge was tested also took on a new form with the rise of written examinations New institutions of knowledge were created museums were important at the start of the period universities had become prominent by the end Victorians needed to make sense of the sheer scale of new information to popularize it and at the same time to exclude ignorance and error a role carried out by encyclopaedias and popular publications By studying the Victorian organization of knowledge in its institutional social and intellectual settings these essays contribute to our wider consideration of the complex and much debated concept of knowledge The Experimental Self Jan Golinski, 2016-05-11 What did it mean to be a scientist before the profession itself existed Jan Golinski finds an answer in the remarkable career of Humphry Davy the foremost chemist of his day and one of the most distinguished British men of science of the nineteenth century Originally a country boy from a modest background Davy was propelled by his scientific accomplishments to a knighthood and the presidency of the Royal Society An enigmatic figure to his contemporaries Davy has continued to elude the efforts of biographers to classify him poet friend to Coleridge and Wordsworth author of travel narratives and a book on fishing chemist and inventor of the miners safety lamp What are we to make of such a man In The Experimental Self Golinski argues that Davy's life is best understood as a prolonged process of self experimentation He follows Davy from his youthful enthusiasm for physiological experiment through his self fashioning as a man of science in a period when the path to a scientific career was not as well trodden as it is today What emerges is a portrait of Davy as a creative fashioner of his own identity through a lifelong series of experiments in selfhood 1973 National Science Foundation Authorization United States.
