Printing and Painting the News in Victorian London Andrea Korda, 2017-07-05 Printing and Painting the News in Victorian London offers a fresh perspective on Social Realism by contextualizing it within the burgeoning new media environment of Victorian London Paintings labelled as Social Realist by Luke Fildes Frank Holl and Hubert Herkomer are frequently considered to typify the sentimental Victorian genre painting that quickly became outdated with the development of modernism Yet this book argues that the paintings must be considered as the result of the new experiences of modernity the urban poverty that the paintings represent and most importantly the advent of the mass produced illustrated news Fildes Holl and Herkomer worked for The Graphic a publication launched in 1869 as a rival to the dominant Illustrated London News The artists' illustrations which featured the growing problem of urban poverty became the basis for large scale paintings that provoked controversy among their contemporaries and later became known as Social Realism This first in depth study of The Graphic and Social Realism uses the approach of media archaeology to unearth the modernity of these works showing that they engaged with the changing notions of objectivity and immediacy that nineteenth century new media cultivated In doing so this book proposes an alternative trajectory for the development of modernism that allows for a richer understanding of nineteenth century visual culture syrups commonly known as corn syrups in North America are derived from starch sources such as maize wheat and potatoes. Offering alternative functional properties to sugar as well as economic benefits, glucose syrups are extremely versatile sweeteners and are widely used in food manufacturing and other industries. They are a key ingredient in confectionery products, beer, soft drinks, sports drinks, jams, sauces, and ice creams, as well as in pharmaceuticals and industrial fermentations. This book brings together all the relevant information on the manufacture and use of glucose syrups. Drawing on forty years' experience in the international glucose industry, the author provides a valuable reference for all those involved in the processing and buying of these syrups and for scientists involved in the manufacture of a full range of food and some non-food products in which the syrups are ingredients. The emphasis is on practical information; recipes are included where relevant in the applications chapters, and appendices offer commonly used calculations and useful data. Food technologists can use the book to make choices about the most suitable glucose syrup to use in a particular application and also to adapt recipes in order to replace sugar, sucrose, or other ingredients. A glossary of terms reflecting the international terminology of the industry completes the book.

Glucose Syrups Peter Hull, 2011-09-23 Glucose

Agribusiness in Africa Barbara Dinham, Colin Hines, 1984 From Family Firms to Corporate Capitalism Kristine Bruland, Patrick O'Brien, 1998

What explains the growth of a business and more broadly the development or decline of a whole economy? What role do particular entrepreneurs or indeed a culture of entrepreneurship play? Does the evidence suggest that a particular structure or organizational form was or should be adopted to ensure best practice and commercial success? These fundamental questions have long pre-occupied business and economic historians. With the current expansion of business and management education and training, the investigations and findings of the historian may have wider significance and relevance. This volume has been stimulated by the work of Peter Mathias, one of the leading figures in this field in the post-war period. Here a number of his former students, many now internationally distinguished historians, pay tribute in a book that explores the move from family firms to corporate capitalism. In a series of chapters they explore at the level of the firm the myriad of micro-decisions that ultimately help to explain the overall performance of industries, sectors, and national economies as they evolve through time. The contributors argue that sustained growth has never been a matter of a few spectacular technical breakthroughs. Instead, it rests on subtle economic and social transformations in cultures, in economic organizations, and in the roles of science and technology.

Louisiana Planter and Sugar Manufacturer, 1928 A History of New York in 27 Buildings Sam Roberts, 2019-10-22

From the urban affairs correspondent of the New York Times, the story of a city through twenty-seven structures that define it. As New York is poised to celebrate its four hundredth anniversary, New York Times correspondent Sam Roberts tells the story of the city through bricks, glass, wood, and mortar, revealing why and how it evolved into the nation's biggest and most influential. From the seven hundred thousand or so buildings in New York, Roberts selects twenty-seven that in the past four centuries have been the most emblematic of the city's economic, social, and political evolution. He describes not only the buildings and how they came to be but also their enduring impact on the city and its people and how the consequences of the construction often reverberated around the world A few structures such as the Empire State Building are architectural icons but Roberts goes beyond the familiar with intriguing stories of the personalities and exploits behind the unrivaled skyscraper s construction Some stretch the definition of buildings to include the city s oldest bridge and the landmark Coney Island Boardwalk Others offer surprises where the United Nations General Assembly first met a hidden hub of global internet traffic a nondescript factory that produced billions of dollars of currency in the poorest neighborhood in the country and the buildings that triggered the Depression and launched the New Deal With his deep knowledge of the city and penchant for fascinating facts Roberts brings to light the brilliant architecture remarkable history and bright future of the greatest city in the world

Resource Sustainability and Caribbean Development Duncan F. M. McGregor, David Barker, Sally Lloyd-Evans, 1998
Resource Sustainability and Caribbean Development follows on from Barker and McGregor s earlier edited volume Environment and Development in the Caribbean Geographical Perspectives 1995 and aims to focus more specifically on the theme of sustainability and to examine research contributions of geographers to problems of sustainability in the Caribbean region While the problems of environmental degradation have increased in recent decades the ability of Caribbean governments to cope with the consequences appears to have been eroded There is however a growing recognition within the region of the need for development strategies that focus on the social needs of the people yet simultaneously protect the fragile natural environment It is hoped that the research presented here will serve to inform the wider research and decision making community of the main problems associated with resource sustainability in the region and of some of the major research directions crucial to the alleviation of these problems Preface Achievement, 1960 Plenty and Want
