Love, Daddy David Rae Morris, Willie Morris, 2022-04-29 Winner of the 2023 Mississippi Institute of Arts and Letters Award for Photography Love Daddy Letters from My Father examines the complexities of father and son relationships through letters and photographs Willie Morris wrote scores of letters to his only son David Rae Morris from the mid 1970s until Willie's death in 1999 From David Rae's perspective his father was often emotionally disconnected and lived a peculiar lifestyle often staying out carousing well into the night But Willie was an eloquent and accomplished writer and began to write his son long loving and supportive letters when David Rae was still in high school An aspiring photographer David Rae was confused and befuddled by his father's warring personalities and began photographing Willie using the camera as a buffer to protect him and his emotions The collection begins in early 1976 and continues for more than twenty years as David Rae moved about the country living in New York Massachusetts Texas Mississippi Tennessee and Minnesota before finally settling in Louisiana All the while my father was writing to me I somehow managed to save his letters David Rae writes I left them in storage and in boxes and in piles of clutter on desks and in basements They were kind offering a love that he found difficult to express openly and directly He simply was more comfortable communicating through letters The letters cover topics ranging from writing the weather Willie's return to Mississippi in 1980 the Ole Miss football season and local town gossip to the fleas on the dog to just life and how it's lived Likewise the photographs are portraits documentary images of daily life dinners outings and private moments Together they narrate and illuminate the complexities of one family relationship and how for better or worse that love endures the passage of time

focus on varied yet interwoven forms of cultural memory Turner also shows that memory is not in fact pass The way we remember has as much to say about our present as our past memory is living shifting culturally formed and framed This is a valuable and important book that entwines new visions of poetic forms with forms of regional remembrance and identity Natasha Trethewey Pulitzer Prize winner and author of Native Guard Poems Offering new perspectives on a diversity of recent and still practicing southern poets from Robert Penn Warren and James Dickey to Betty Adcock Charles Wright Yusef Komunyakaa Natasha Trethewey and others this study brilliantly illustrates poetry's value as a genre well suited to investigating historical conditions and the ways in which they are culturally assimilated and remembered Daniel Cross Turner sets the stage for his wide ranging explorations with an introductory discussion of the famous Fugitive poets John Crowe Ransom Allen Tate and Donald Davidson and their vision of a constant southernness that included an emphasis on community and kinship remembrance of the Civil War and its glorified pathos of defeat and a distinctively southern white voice Combining poetic theory with memory studies he then shows how later poets with their own unique forms of cultural remembrance have reimagined and critiqued the idealized view of the South offered by the Fugitives This more recent work reflects not just trauma and nostalgia but makes equally trenchant uses of the past including historiophoty the recording of history through visual images and countermemory resistant strains of cultural memory that disrupt official historical accounts As Turner demonstrates the range of poetries produced within and about the American South from the 1950s to the present helps us to recalibrate theories of collective remembrance on regional national and even transnational levels With its array of new insights on poets of considerable reputation six of the writers discussed here have won at least one Pulitzer Prize for poetry Southern Crossings makes a signal contribution to the study of not only modern poetics and literary theory but also of the U S South and its place in the larger world Daniel Cross Turner is an assistant professor of English at Coastal Carolina University His articles which focus on regional definition in national and global contexts and on aesthetic forms potential to record historical transitions appear in edited collections as well as journals including Genre Mosaic the Southern Literary Journal the Southern Quarterly and the Mississippi Quarterly

Religion and Film S. Brent Plate, 2017-09-05

Religion and cinema share a capacity for world making ritualizing mythologizing and creating sacred time and space Through cinematography mise en scene editing and other production activities film takes the world out there and refashions it Religion achieves similar ends by setting apart particular objects and periods of time telling stories and gathering people together for communal actions and concentrated focus The result of both cinema and religious practice is a re-created world a world of fantasy a world of ideology a world we long to live in or a world we wish to avoid at all costs Religion and Film introduces readers to both religious studies and film studies by focusing on the formal similarities between cinema and religious practices and on the ways they each re-create the world Explorations of film show how the cinematic experience relies on similar aesthetic devices on which religious rituals have long relied sight sound the taste of food the body and communal experience Meanwhile a deeper understanding of the aesthetic nature of religious rituals can alter our understanding of film production Utilizing terminology and theoretical insights from the study of religion as well as the study of film Religion and Film shows that by paying attention to the ways films are constructed we can shed new light on the ways religious myths and rituals are constructed and vice versa This thoroughly revised and expanded new edition is designed to appeal to the needs of courses in religion as well as film departments In addition to two new chapters this edition has been restructured into three distinct sections that offer students and instructors theories and methods for thinking about cinema in ways that more fully connect film studies with religious studies
