REVIEWS FOR KAI Two young women a Japanese schoolgirl in Hiroshima and a Korean orphan in the US seemingly living parallel lives are drawn together in a Japanese horror story of interconnections and dark imaginings Through the fevered imaginations of its protagonists Vasconi takes us on an ever changing journey across oceans and continents and through a maze of sexual tensions horrific miscarriages and malevolent thoughts against the ever present backdrop of the Atomic Bomb and its searing disfigurements Yet through the clouds of nuclear dystopia come rays of transformative light in a compelling finale that grips the imagination and leaves one looking back at the interconnections at the heart of this gripping tale

Ian Reader Author of Religious Violence in Contemporary Japan The Case of Aum Shinrikyo KAI combines horror drama mystery and philosophy in an engaging gory and violent character study of two young girls

Derek manages to create a very blurry line between what is real and what isn't. The detailed descriptions and graphic imagery really helps create the world both Satsuki and Seul Bi live in and the difficulties they go through. If you're squeamish though, be warned as some scenes in the book can be quite difficult to stomach. Nihon in London This book is quite an eloquent yet biting read. The slow creeping eventually brutal feel of the piece is truly terrifying at times. It's got a lot of nuance and subtle pacing that makes Asian inspired horror fiction great all the while drawing from American Gothic to make a really eclectic varied feel and all the more disturbing for it. To be blunt, it's weird as hell in the best of ways. Self Publishing Review

Derek weaves a compelling tale in Kai. The story shifts focus smoothly between Satsuki and Seul Bi from the understated opening chapters right through to the grand reveal of just what it is that connects these two girls. Most importantly, the characters you are introduced to are believable, making the occasional visceral moments all the more potent. Ross Lovell
