Strong, 2018-06-05 Buddhism is popularly seen as a religion stressing the truth of impermanence How then to account for the long standing veneration in Asian Buddhist communities of bone fragments hair teeth and other bodily bits said to come from the historic Buddha Early European and American scholars of religion influenced by a characteristic Protestant bias against relic worship declared such practices to be superstitious and fraudulent and far from the true essence of Buddhism John Strong's book by contrast argues that relic veneration has played a serious and integral role in Buddhist traditions in South and Southeast Asia and that it is in no way foreign to Buddhism The book is structured around the life story of the Buddha starting with traditions about relics of previous buddhas and relics from the past lives of the Buddha Sakyamuni It then considers the death of the Buddha the collection of his bodily relics after his cremation and stories of their spread to different parts of Asia The book ends with a consideration of the legend of the future parinirvana extinction of the relics prior to the advent of the next Buddha Maitreya Throughout the author does not hesitate to explore the many versions of these legends and to relate them to their ritual doctrinal artistic and social contexts

A. Behrendt, 2007 Ancient Gandhara located in the rugged foothills of the Himalayas in what is today northwest Pakistan and eastern Afghanistan was for centuries a thriving center of trade along the Silk Road linking China South Asia and the Mediterranean Gandhara's strategic position and wealth attracted many invaders including the Greeks Parthians and Kushans who brought with them diverse religious traditions and artistic conventions Much of Gandharan art is thus a compelling fusion of foreign styles that ultimately gave visual form to the region's Buddhist religious ideals Buddhism which had emerged from north India was embraced by the Gandharan people whose wealth gave them the means to invest large sums of money in the construction of Buddhist monasteries and sacred areas More sculpture and architecture made in the service of Buddhism has been found in Greater Gandhara than in any other part of ancient South Asia Among the earliest remains from Gandhara are luxury items found in urban centers including intricately carved stone dishes jewelry and trade goods carved in bone or ivory dating from the second century B C to the first century A D The first art associated with Buddhism dates to the early first century A D when carved reliefs embellishing religious architecture began to appear These reliefs typically illustrate important episodes from the biography of the Buddha such as his birth first sermon and death Following a gradual decline in the narrative sculptural tradition devotional images of Buddhas and bodhisattvas began to appear iconic representations that were meant to be associated with major concepts in the religion In Gandhara devotional sculptures grew dramatically in size from about the late fourth to early fifth century A D at the same time as their iconography became ever more complex By the late fifth century A D the patronage of Buddhist monuments in Gandhara had begun to decline but in Afghanistan this artistic tradition flourished until about the eighth century A D It was during this late phase in Afghanistan when devotional representations of Buddhas and bodhisattvas reached truly monumental proportions such as the famous Buddhas at Bamiyan The Metropolitan Museum of Art is fortunate to have in its collections a broad and artistically rich sampling of Gandharan art from almost all phases of the region's history including a unique bronze statuette of the Buddha Sakyamuni from about the first to second century A D In surveying these important works this volume relies on the latest scholarship to refine our understanding of Gandhara's complex cultural history as well as its evolving artistic traditions
