The Buckskin Girl:

Forensic Reconstruction: Theory to Practice Henry Lee, Elaine Pagliaro, 2024-10-14 Forensic reconstruction is intended for use by students and practitioners alike There are few books that concentrate on the process of crime scene reconstruction that also include some of the basic principles of forensic investigation These principles are examined in the first few chapters of the book and include the use of logic in examination and the admission of reconstruction evidence in American courts After a look at the basics this text looks at application of these standards in various applications of the reconstruction process Among the applications are those that may be found in other sources such as shooting reconstruction DNA pathology and bloodstain pattern analysis also included are more recent developments and unique areas such as profiling genetic genealogy and computational reconstruction as applied to airplane crashes Each chapter is written by a recognized expert in the field which adds a depth of understanding and case highlights not found in other texts New Perspectives in Forensic Human Skeletal Identification Krista E. Latham, Eric J. Bartelink, Michael Finnegan, 2017-07-27 New Perspectives in Forensic Human Skeletal Identification provides a comprehensive and up to date perspective on human identification methods in forensic anthropology Divided into four distinct sections the chapters will reflect recent advances in human skeletal identification including statistical and morphometric methods for assessing the biological profile sex age ancestry stature biochemical methods of identification DNA analysis stable isotope analysis bomb curve analysis and use of comparative radiography The final section of this book highlights advances in human identification techniques that are being applied to international populations and disaster victims The contributing authors represent established experts in forensic anthropology and closely related fields New Perspectives in Forensic Human Skeletal Identification will be an essential resource for researchers practitioners and advanced students interested in state of the art methods for human identification A comprehensive and up to date volume on human identification methods in forensic anthropology Focuses on recent advances such as statistical and morphometric methods for assessing the biological profile biochemical methods of identification and use of comparative radiography Includes an entire section on human identification techniques being applied to international populations and disaster victims Interpreting Complex Forensic DNA Evidence Jane Moira Taupin, 2019-11-14 Interpreting Complex Forensic DNA Evidence is a handy guide to recent advances and emerging issues in interpreting complex DNA evidence and profiles for use in criminal investigations In certain cases DNA cannot be connected to a specific biological material such as blood semen or saliva How or when the DNA was deposited may be an issue The possibility of generating DNA profiles from touched objects where there may not be a visible deposit has expanded the scope and number of exhibits submitted for DNA analysis With such advances and increasing improvements in technological capabilities in testing samples this means it is possible to detect ever smaller amounts of DNA There are also many efforts underway to seek ways to interpret DNA profiles that are sub optimal either relative to the amount required by the testing kit and potentially the quality of the obtained sample Laboratories often use enhancements in order to obtain a readable DNA profile The broad reaching implications of improving DNA sensitivity have led to this next emerging generation of more complex profiles Examples partial profiles that do not faithfully reflect the proposed donor or mixtures of partial DNA from multiple people A complexity threshold has been proposed to limit interpretation of poor quality data Research is now addressing the interpretation of transfer of trace amounts of DNA Complex issues are arising in trial that need to be reconciled as such complexity has added challenges to the interpretation of evidence and its introduction or dismissal in certain cases in the courts Key Features Addresses DNA transfer from person to person as well as to objects Outlines each stage required to produce a DNA profile from an exhibit including collection handling storage and analysis Discusses ethics subjectivity and bias including cognitive dissonance as they relate specifically to complex DNA evidence Highlights current techniques and the latest advances in DNA analysis including advances in familial DNA searches Interpreting Complex Forensic DNA Evidence provides tools to assist the criminal investigator forensic expert and legal professional when posed with a DNA result in a forensic report or testimony The result and any associated statistic may not reveal any ambiguity complexity or the assumptions involved in deriving it Questions from resolved criminal cases are posed and the relevant forensic literature provided for the reader to assess a DNA result and any associated statistic Case studies throughout illustrate concepts and emphasize the need for conclusions in the forensic report that are supported by the data

Agnes, I'm Far Too Young to Look this Hot Tony Cochran, 2003 Somewhere between here and anywhere in a trailer park called The People's Court lives a bespectacled floppy footed girl named Agnes Her age falls exactly between the wide eyed times when fairy tales are embraced as truth and the darker later years when cynicism starts to take its toll The other players in this small sideshow are Grandma a hardworking underpaid Golden Ager who worries that she may be a little too old for the challenge of raising a granddaughter and Trout Agnes's best friend Trout was named after one of her father's biggest passions and according to her she was only three numbers from being christened Powerball Trout tries to temper Agnes's stigmatism of hope with her own doctrine of realism Together they weather the major tribulations that only childhood can make so monumental Trout aspires to pilot a soft serve ice cream machine so all the kids will laugh and yell Hey Ice Cream Lady Agnes merely wants to be crowned lord queen of the unknown universe They will probably end up on different bowling leagues
