The Call of the Twentieth Century Henry Harrison Brown, 2017-08-02 In the Evolution of Life each century has left some distinctive mark upon the race The student as easily realizes epochs in human history as he does in the geological life of the earth These epochs begin in twilight and overlap each other I can now simply note the gift of the nineteenth century to the twentieth That century was the culmination of an era begun in previous ones Its great contribution was first the complete verifying and acceptance of The Law of the Correlation and Conservation of Force All energy is one It can neither be created nor destroyed be neither Teased nor diminished This Energy may change its form but is itself eternal In the latter half of the century was enunciated the now almost universally accepted Principle of Evolution The century was preeminently a philosophical and scientific one and all tendencies of these were toward materialism Herbert Spencer was its highest product in these lines

Keenan,2010-01-17 This is an historical survey of 20th Century Roman Catholic Theological Ethics also known as moral theology The thesis is that only through historical investigation can we really understand how the most conservative and negative field in Catholic theology at the beginning of the 20th could become by the end of the 20th century the most innovative one The 20th century begins with moral manuals being translated into the vernacular After examining the manuals of Thomas Slater and Henry Davis Keenan then turns to three works and a crowning synthesis of innovation all developed before during and soon after the Second World War The first by Odon Lottin asks whether moral theology is adequately historical Fritz Tillmann asks whether it s adequately biblical and Gerard Gilleman whether it s adequately spiritual Bernard Haering integrates these contributions into his Law of Christ Of course people like Gerald Kelly and John Ford in the US are like a few moralists elsewhere classical gate keepers censoring innovation But with Humanae vitae and successive encyclicals bishops and popes reject the direction of moral theologians At the same time moral theologians like Josef Fuchs ask whether the locus of moral truth is in continuous universal teachings of the magisterium or in the moral judgment of the informed conscience In their move toward a deeper appreciation of their field as forming consciences they turn more deeply to local experience where they continue their work of innovation Each continent subsequently gives rise to their own respondents In Europe they speak of autonomy and personalism in Latin America liberation theology in North America Feminism and Black Catholic theology and in Asia and Africa a deep post colonial interculturatism At the end I assert that in its nature theological ethics is historical and innovative seeking moral truth for the conscience by looking to speak crossculturally The Twentieth Century ,1902 Yonkers in the Twentieth Century Marilyn E.
