mass spectator sport in the world has always remained a marker of identities of various sorts Behind the facade of its obvious entertainment aspect it has proved to be a perpetuating reflector of nationalism ethnicity community or communal identity and cultural specificity Naturally therefore the game is a complex representative of minorities status especially in countries where minorities play a crucial role in political social cultural or economic life The question is also important since in many nations success in sports like soccer has been used as an instrument for assimilation or to promote an alternative brand of nationalism Thus Jewish teams in pre Second World War Europe were set up to promote the idea of a muscular Jewish identity Similarly in apartheid South Africa soccer became the game of the black majority since it was excluded from the two principal games of the country rugby and cricket In India on the other hand the Muslim minorities under colonial rule appropriated soccer to assert their community identity The book examines why in certain countries minorities chose to take up the sport while in others they backed away from participating in the game or alternatively set up their own leagues and practised self exclusion The book examines European countries like the Netherlands England and France the USA Africa Australia and the larger countries of Asia particularly India This book was previously published as a special issue of Soccer and Society Ginger Rogers Jocelyn Faris,1994-03-14 Though chiefly remembered as the dance partner of Fred Astaire

Dominant State In Singapore Bilveer Singh, 2019-07-11. This book examines the staying power of the People's Action Party, a political party that has governed Singapore since June 1959. A political titan with few chinks in its armour, the party has kept winning elections under three prime ministers and Singapore is about to witness a transition to the fourth prime minister. The party's seemingly unstoppable sterling performance makes the issue of the durability of the PAP highly critical. In light of the serious weakness of the Opposition and the strong performance legitimacy of the ruling party, it is worthwhile asking the question: can the PAP stumble and fall? Addressing this question is highly relevant given that similar political parties and structures have almost all collapsed elsewhere: the Barisan Nasional as the latest casualty with its defeat in Malaysia's 2018 General Elections. With an extensive coverage on domestic and international issues, up to date developments on the finalisation of the PAP's 4G leadership, the Workers Party town council saga and the efforts to form an opposition
