The Immorality Of Limiting Growth:

The Immorality of Limiting Growth Edward Walter, 1981-06-30 The Industrial Age has ended according to no growth futurism because the finitude of the earth has been reached Its proponents maintain that technological innovation cannot save industrial society because of pollution over population and inflation They call for a transformed society in which productivity pollution and population growth are strictly controlled This volume emphatically challenges the no growth viewpoint on both philosophical and empirical grounds In it Edward Walter demonstrates that the interests of those who are socially deprived cannot be fulfilled in a steady state because the privileged classes are able to use their power to prevent redistribution of wealth and to retain their advantages Far from equating technology with pollution and the depletion of natural resources Walter sees it as the means by which resource shortages can be overcome and pollution control can be achieved He describes and recommends an essential liberalism that could provide economic development to all classes in a spirit of international cooperation without necessitating the transformation of human nature and political institutions

Is Limitation of the Family Immoral? William Charles Windeyer, 1834-1897, 1889 Anthropology and Contemporary Human Problems John H. Bodley, 2012-04-12 We live in a time of global mega problems of unsustainable growth and consumption resource depletion ecosystem degradation global warming escalating energy costs poverty and conflict Cultural anthropologist John H Bodley trenchantly critiques these most pressing issues and shows how anthropology makes it possible to find solutions The focus on culture scale suggests that many solutions may be found by developing local communities supported by regional markets and ecosystems rather than by making the continuous accumulation of financial capital the dominant cultural process throughout the world Now in its sixth edition this classic textbook continues to have tremendous relevance and is more timely than ever in light of the recent global economic crisis It exposes readers to the problems of a world out of balance with misdirected growth by the elite Bodley offers examples from prehistoric and modern tribal societies

along side of ancient imperial and contemporary commercial societies Students will find this to be the trusted source to build a world view Anthropology and Contemporary Human Problems is ideal for adoption in anthropology and sociology courses on globalization cultural ecology social class and inequality the environment sustainability and development The Death of Industrial Civilization Joel Jay Kassiola,1990-01-01 The Death of Industrial Civilization explains how the contemporary ecological crisis within industrial society is caused by the values inherent in unlimited economic growth and competitive materialism Kassiola shows that the limits to growth critique of industrial civilization is the most effective stance against what seems to be a dominant and invincible social order He prescribes the social changes that must be implemented in order to transform industrial society into a sustainable and more satisfying one Future Survey Annual 1983 Michael Marien,1984-01-01 Explorations in Environmental Political Theory Joel Jay Kassiola,2015-03-04 The contributors to this volume focus on the political and value issues that in their shared view underlie the global environmental crisis facing us today They argue that only by transforming our dominant values social institutions and way of living can we avoid ecological disaster The Ethics of Nonviolence Robert L. Holmes,2013-06-20 Robert Holmes is one of the leading proponents of nonviolence in the United States and his influence extends to the rest of the world However he has never presented his views on nonviolence in full length book form The Ethics of Nonviolence brings together his best essays on the topic both classic works and more obscure pieces as well as several important essays that have never been published Holmes started his career by following Dewey and James and then turned toward metaethics The Vietnam War finally led him toward moral problems related to war and violence For the last forty years he has been a great proponent of nonviolence and pacifism in the style of Tolstoy and Gandhi If ethics is meant to be more than a purely academic exercise the theoretical ethics of philosophy must be shown to be relevant to applied morality the ongoing process of making moral judgments must add value to the world we live in For Robert Holmes no aspect of reality is more in need of ethical thinking and reform than the culture of war and violence that cannot be ignored There are morally viable alternatives to this violence Holmes argues and he scrutinizes the sources and implications of such positions Holmes shows that nonviolence and pacifism can lead us toward a more peaceful and humanely dignified world Ideology, Social Theory, and the Environment William D. Sunderlin,2003 Does human population growth threaten the environment or does it guarantee we will safeguard it Is economic growth the key ecological problem or is it in fact the solution What will be the leading force to save the planet civil society government or private enterprise This book shows that these polemical debates are governed not so much by access to facts as they are by the political ideology of the expert advancing a particular argument Moreover the thoughts of these experts tend to be based largely in just one of three competing streams of political thought the left the center or the right Drawing on social theory the author explains the philosophical origins of this tendency to rely on just one of three traditions and why this poses a serious obstacle to conceptualizing the cause nature and resolution of environmental problems Sunderlin argues that laying the foundation for a livable world involves giving conscious and dedicated attention to the core tenets of all three political traditions action against class inequality and advocacy of social justice within and among countries reformation of laws and policies emanating from the halls of power and technological innovation in centers of research and wholesale cultural change and promotion of individual initiative responsibility and creativity
