The Industrial Muse A Study Of Nineteenth Century British Working Class Literature:

The Industrial Muse Martha Vicinus,1975 In this volume the authors provide the latest knowledge base on childhood aggression the cognitive behavioral principles underlying their approach instructions for setting up and running the program and a session by session treatment manual Included are detailed guidelines for monitoring intervention outcomes and successfully duplicating the program across multiple settings Many helpful examples enhance the practical utility of the book as do reproducible teacher handouts child self report forms and parent letters in English and Spanish English Industrial Fiction of the Mid-Nineteenth Century Stephen Knight,2024-05-07 English Industrial Fiction of the Mid Nineteenth Century discusses the valuable fiction written in mid nineteenth century Britain which represents the situations of the new breed of industrial workers both the mostly male factory workers who operated in the oppressive mills of the midlands and north and in other stories the oppressed seamstresses who worked mostly in London in very poor and low paid conditions Beginning with a general introduction to workers fiction at the start of the period this volume charts the rise of an identifiable genre of industrial fiction and the development of a substantial mode of seamstress fiction through the 1840s including an analysis of novels by Benjamin Disraeli Charles Kingsley Elizabeth Gaskell and Charles Dickens and more briefly Charlotte Bronte Geraldine Jewsbury and George Eliot This volume is essential reading for students and scholars of industrial fiction and nineteenth century Britain or those with an interest in the relationship between literature society and politics Home in British Working-Class Fiction Nicola Wilson,2016-03-09 Home in British Working Class Fiction offers a fresh take on British working class writing that turns away from a masculinist work based understanding of class in favour of home gender domestic labour and the family kitchen As Nicola Wilson shows the history of the British working classes has often been written from the outside with observers looking into the world of the inhabitants Here Wilson engages with the long cultural history of this gaze and asks how home is represented in the writing of authors who come from a working class background Her book explores the depiction of home as a key emotional and material site in working class writing from the Edwardian period through to the early 1990s Wilson presents new readings of classic texts including The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists Love on the Dole and Saturday Night and Sunday Morning analyzing them alongside works by authors including James Hanley Walter Brierley Lewis Grassie Gibbon Buchi Emecheta Pat Barker James Kelman and the rediscovered ex mill girl novelist Ethel Carnie Holdsworth Wilson s broad understanding of working class writing allows her to incorporate figures typically ignored in this context as she demonstrates the importance of home s role in the making and expression of class feeling and identity Education in Britain, 1750-1914 W B Stephens,1999-01-18 This concise study covers the development of education throughout Great Britain from the Industrial Revolution to the Great War a period in which urbanization industrialization and population growth posed huge social and political problems and education became one of the fiercest areas of conflict in society The Wiley-Blackwell Companion to Sociology George Ritzer,2016-09-26

Featuring a collection of original chapters by leading and emerging scholars The Wiley Blackwell Companion to Sociology presents a comprehensive and balanced overview of the major topics and emerging trends in the discipline of sociology today Features original chapters contributed by an international cast of leading and emerging sociology scholars Represents the most innovative and state of the art thinking about the discipline Includes a general introduction and section introductions with chapters summaries by the editor The Routledge Companion to Victorian Literature Dennis Denisoff, Talia

The Golden Age Ian Inkster, Colin Griffin, Judith Rowbotham, 2017-07-05 In 1850 the Industrial Revolution came to an end In 1851 the Great Exhibition illustrated to the whole world the supremacy of industrial England For the next twenty years Britain reigned supreme From around 1870 Britain began to decline Britain is now a second rate power with strong memories of its former supremacy The above five sentences summarise a common view of the sequencing of Britain's rise and relative fall a stereotype that is challenged and modified in the essays of The Golden Age By concentrating on central aspects of social and industrial change authors expose the underpinnings of supremacy its unsung underside its tarnished gold Major themes cover industrial and technological change social institutions and gender relations in a period during which industry and industrialism were equally celebrated and nurtured Against this background it is difficult to argue for any sudden decline of energy assets or institution nor for any significant move from an industrial society to one in which a hearty manufacturing was replaced by commerce and land sensibility and artifice The Politics of Nursing Knowledge Anne Marie Rafferty, 1996

Focusing on the evolution of training and policy making and highlighting contemporary issues confronting those in training Anne Marie Rafferty analyses how far nursing fits into the mould of both a profession and an academic discipline

Cultural Materialism Christopher Prendergast, 1995 Widely regarded as one of the founding figures of international cultural studies Raymond Williams is of seminal importance in rethinking the idea of culture In tribute to his legacy this edited volume is devoted to his theories of cultural materialism and is the most substantial and wide ranging collection of essays on his work to be offered since his death in 1988 Working Women, Literary Ladies Sylvia J. Cook, 2008-01-30

Working Women Literary Ladies explores the simultaneous entry of working class women in the United States into wage earning factory labor and into opportunities for mental and literary development It is the first book to examine the fascinating exchange between the work and literary spheres for laboring women in the rapidly industrializing America of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries As women entered the public sphere as workers their opportunities for intellectual growth expanded even as those same opportunities were often tightly circumscribed by the factory owners who were providing them These developments both institutional and personal opened up a range of new possibilities for working class women that profoundly affected women of all classes and the larger social fabric Cook examines the extraordinary and diverse literary productions of these working women ranging from their first New England magazine of belles lettres The Lowell Offering to Emma Goldman s periodical Mother Earth from Lucy Larcom s epic poem of female factory life An Idyl of Work to Theresa Malkiel s fictional account of sweatshop workers in New York The Diary of a Shirtwaist Striker This vital new book traces the hopes and tensions generated by the expectations of working class women as they created a wholly new way of being alive in the world
