Reviews on New Drug Targets in Age-Related Disorders Paul C. Guest,2020-04-17 Aging is an inevitable part of life and is becoming a worldwide social economic and health problem This is mainly due to the fact that the increasing proportion of individuals in the advanced age category have a higher probability of developing age related disorders such as type II diabetes mellitus cardiovascular disorders sarcopenia and neurodegenerative conditions New therapeutic approaches are still needed to decrease or slow the effects of such diseases Advances in omic technologies such as genomics transcriptomics proteomics and metabolomics have significantly advanced our understanding of disease in multiple medical areas as the analysis of multiple molecular networks has simultaneously provided a more integrated view of disease pathways It is hoped that emerging hits from these analyses might be prioritized for further screening as potential novel drug targets for increasing the human healthspan in line with the lifespan In turn this will lead to new therapeutic strategies as well as drug development projects by the pharmaceutical industry This book presents a series of reviews describing studies that have resulted in identification of new potential drug targets for age related disorders Much of this information has come from omic comparisons of healthy and disease states or from testing the effects of new therapeutic approaches Authored by experts from around the globe each chapter is presented in the context of specific chronic diseases or therapeutic strategies This book is designed for researchers in the areas of aging and chronic disease as well as clinical scientists physicians and stakeholders in major drug companies Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,1972 Iron Trade Review ,1920

Seattle Monorail Project ,2004 Network-Based Governance in EC Law Maartje De Visser,2009-11-23 To strengthen the credibility of the EU and its policies the European Community is increasingly concerned to emphasise effective enforcement of EC law This book engages in the debate on the better application of European law by offering an integrated analysis of a new institutional arrangement one that relies on networks grouping the Commission and national administrative authorities Taking the traditional enforcement paradigms of decentralisation centralisation and agency based enforcement as starting points their benefits and downsides are described and critiqued and the author concludes that there is considerable room for improvement The book then undertakes a comprehensive analysis of the network model to determine its core characteristics and assess its effectiveness European competition law and electronic communications law are used as case studies because inter alia the networks there have developed an adequate level of sophistication The book also employs a bottom up approach considering how four key Member States France Germany the Netherlands and the United Kingdom have given effect to the relevant European rules At the core of the book is a critique of the wider normative attractiveness of the network model The discussion is kaleidoscopic engaging with a wide variety of notions including legitimacy judicial review subsidiarity institutional balance and efficiency The thrust of the book is that network based governance deserves careful consideration as the model that is able to mediate the competing concerns of coherence for Internal Market reasons and of diversity and respect for local autonomy This book is useful for EC competition law and communications law practitioners and those with a keen interest in institutional and administrative law

Services and the EU Citizen Frank S Benyon, 2013-04-12 The importance of services in the EU economy has increased exponentially in the last decades as have the number and scope of EU rules both those liberalising the provision of services and those protecting their recipients or consumers the passengers patients viewers and bank depositors However these consumers in their capacity as citizens are increasingly disillusioned with the EU and its institutions This book written by practitioners academics and advocates before the European Court reflects on these developments examining rules in numerous service sectors from the capping of roaming call charges upheld in the Vodafone decision through health care to the requirement for air carriers to care for and compensate passengers approved in the generous Sturgeon judgment The Court's positive approach may have been guided by a desire to consolidate the notion of EU citizenship a status introduced but without clear content at Maastricht The book therefore considers whether these uniform EU wide consumer rights may not form an important component of such European citizenship The Commission's proposal to make 2013 European Year of Citizens seems to favour such a view
