Equity and Mercy included in this collection is the philosophical starting point of this debate and Bernhard Schlink's novel The Reader a novel exploring the tension between judging and understanding among other things is used as a case study by most contributors. Some contributors situated at one end of the spectrum of views represented in this collection argue for the wholesale elimination of our practices of retribution in the light of the tension between judging and understanding while contributors on the other side of the spectrum argue that the tension does not actually exist. A whole array of intermediate positions including Nussbaum's are represented. This anthology is comprised of nearly all specially commissioned essays bringing together work dealing with the moral, metaphysical, epistemological and phenomenological issues required for properly understanding whether in fact there is a tension between judging and understanding and what the moral and legal implications may be of accepting or rejecting this tension.

In Write to the Point accomplished author and literary critic Sam Leith kicks the age-old lists of dos and don'ts to the curb Yes he covers the nuts and bolts we need to be in complete command of the language grammar punctuation parts of speech and other subjects half remembered from grade school But more importantly he charts a commonsense course between the Armies of Correctness and the Descriptivist Irregulars For Leith knowing not just the rules but also how and when to ignore them developing an ear for what works best in context is everything

In this master class Leith teaches us a skill of paramount importance in this smartphone age when we all carry a keyboard in our pockets to write clearly and persuasively for any purpose to write to the point
