The Shame of the Nation Jonathan Kozol, 2006-08-01 Since the early 1980s when the federal courts began dismantling the landmark ruling in Brown v Board of Education segregation of black children has reverted to its highest level since 1968 In many inner city schools a stick and carrot method of behavioral control traditionally used in prisons is now used with students Meanwhile as high stakes testing takes on pathological and punitive dimensions liberal education has been increasingly replaced by culturally barren and robotic methods of instruction that would be rejected out of hand by schools that serve the mainstream of society Filled with the passionate voices of children principals and teachers and some of the most revered leaders in the black community The Shame of the Nation pays tribute to those undefeated educators who persist against the odds but directly challenges the chilling practices now being forced upon our urban systems In their place Kozol offers a humane dramatic challenge to our nation to fulfill at last the promise made some 50 years ago to all our youngest citizens

Last Deadly Lie Caleb Pirtle, III, 1987-06 Nathan Locke is the pastor of Basilwood Presbyterian Church an ambitious man who carefully and charismatically manipulates his congregation to build a power base and financial empire within the town Helen Jensen live with her fragile dreams watching them shatter around her She is desperately in love with only one man Unfortunately it is not her husband Raymond Lynch came from his home in New England to teach in Mississippi schools He's a yankee He's an outcast He dares to openly challenge the minister as he desperately tries to hide from the shame of his past Tom Beecher is a maverick the aging former attorney general of Mississippi who has seen too much who knows too much who keeps too many secrets especially the one that haunts him like a nightmare without an end Birdie Castleberry and Alice Setzer deal with what they know best lies rumors half truths and gossip Their tongues are the
