Elements of Public Speaking Harry Garfield Houghton, 2015-06-02 Excerpt from Elements of Public Speaking This book is designed to meet a special need It makes no pretense of running the whole gamut of expression and furnishing the student with all he needs to know from elementary speaking to advanced argumentation or interpretative reading It is limited to a single field and chiefly to the work of a single course It is the outgrowth of a need that I have long felt in my classes for a textbook which without entering into unnecessary detail would furnish the student with the essentials for instruction in practical speaking After experimenting with this problem for several years it is my conclusion that for courses in practical speaking two things are essential First a definite amount of accurately expressed theory that is enough theory of the subject so that the student will not have to work blindly This theory should be presented clearly and comprehensively that he may be able to grasp it easily without having to flounder among technicalities which he has neither time nor need to master Second a maximum of practice Each problem as it is presented should be put into immediate practice by means of actual speech work upon the platform and this practice should be kept up constantly from the first recitation till the last Without this any theory of the subject that may be presented is valueless It is the actual doing and this alone that brings results About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
