Grammaticalization Paths of English and High German Existential Constructions

Simone E. Pfenninger, 2009 Existential constructions are a fundamental feature of many Indo European languages and constructions with non referential subjects have developed in all of the latter albeit at different stages in their histories High German does not feature a prototypical existential construction that is equivalent in syntactic and pragmatic function and semantic meaning to the English existential there construction How did a prototypical existential structure originate in English Why is it that High German has never developed such a construction Has it ever shown a tendency towards developing one How did two closely related languages such as English and High German come to differ so much with respect to these constructions By means of investigating a variety of historical and contemporary data this study shows that not only semantic pragmatic and syntactic factors are involved which decide the choice of a certain construction but also very much the more general different linguistic development that the two languages underwent in the course of time of Sitting, Standing and Lying John Newman, 2002-01-01 This volume explores properties of sit stand and lie verbs reflecting three of the most salient postures associated with humans An introductory chapter by the Editor provides an overview of directions for research into posture verbs These directions are then explored in detail in a number of languages Dutch Korean Japanese Lao Chantyal Magar Tibeto Burman Chipewyan Athapaskan Trumai spoken in Brazil Kxoe Khoisan Mbay Nilo Saharan Oceanic Enga Ku Waru Papuan Arrernte Pitjantjatjara Ngan gityemerri Australian The contributors discuss data relevant to many fields of linguistic inquiry including patterns of lexicalization e g simplex or complex verb forms morphology e g state vs action formations grammaticalization e g extension to locational predicates aspect markers auxiliaries copulas classifiers and figurative extension A final chapter reports on an experimental methodology designed to establish the relevant cognitive parameters underlying speakers judgements on the polysemy of English stand Taken together the chapters provide a wealth of cross linguistic data on posture verbs

The Linguistics

Locative and Existential Predication

Chris Lasse Däbritz, Josefina Budzisch, Rodolfo Basile, 2025-09-10 Locative and existential predications are fundamental linguistic constructions that exhibit significant formal overlap while serving distinct communicative functions Locative clauses typically anchor a definite referent to a spatial context whereas existential clauses introduce new often indefinite referents into discourse Despite their central role in syntactic and typological research the cross linguistic diversity of these predications remains largely underexplored This collective volume originates from workshops held in 2023 at the Annual SLE Meeting in Athens and the International Conference on Historical Linguistics in Heidelberg It brings together in depth analyses of locative and existential predications across a wide range of languages drawing on diverse methodological and theoretical approaches Rather than imposing a single framework the volume deliberately allows for variation in how these constructions are defined and analyzed reflecting the complexity and diversity of linguistic structures A key theme of the book is the relationship between locative existential and possessive predication Many of the included studies highlight the formal and functional connections between these domains illustrating how different languages encode possession through structures that overlap with locative and existential constructions The volume also challenges conventional assumptions about structural distinctions between these predications showing that in many languages such boundaries are blurred or even nonexistent The introductory chapter reviews key findings from prior research and offers a refined typology of locative and existential predications It also highlights the major insights from the remaining chapters each of which provides a detailed empirical analysis of these constructions in one or several underdescribed languages The contributions address i the structural and functional properties of locative and existential clauses ii criteria for distinguishing these constructions in languages where formal differentiation is minimal iii their frequency and usage in natural discourse and iv grammaticalization pathways that link locative existential and possessive predication By integrating data from a broad range of languages and perspectives this volume advances our understanding of locative and existential predication and offers a foundation for future research in typology syntax and historical linguistics The Power of Deterrence Amir

Lupovici,2016-09 Argues that states attachment to the strategy of deterrence can increase the chances of violence rather than avoid it The Negative Existential Cycle Ljuba Veselinova,Arja Hamari,2022-12-20 In 1991 William Croft suggested that negative existentials typically lexical expressions that mean not exist not have are one possible source for negation markers and gave his hypothesis the name Negative Existential Cycle NEC It is a variationist model based on cross linguistic data For a good twenty years following its formulation it was cited at face value without ever having been tested by historical comparative data Over the last decade Ljuba Veselinova has worked on testing the model in a comparative perspective and this edited volume further expands on her work The collection presented here features detailed studies of several language families such as Bantu Chadic and Indo European A number of articles focus on the micro variation and attested historical developments within smaller groups and clusters such as Arabic Mandarin and Cantonese and Nanaic Finally variation and historical developments in specific languages are discussed for Ancient Hebrew Ancient Egyptian Moksha Mordvin Uralic Bashkir Turkic Kalmyk Mongolic three Pama Nyungan languages O dam Southern Uto Aztecan and Tacana Takanan Amazonian Bolivia The book is concluded by two chapters devoted to modeling cyclical processes in language change from different theoretical perspectives Key notions discussed throughout the book include affirmative and negative existential constructions the expansion of the latter into verbal negation and subsequently from more specific to more general markers of negation Nominalizations as well as the uses of negative existentials as standalone negative answers figure among the most frequent pathways whereby negative existentials evolve as general negation markers The operation of the Negative Existential Cycle appears partly genealogically conditioned as the cycle is found to iterate regularly within some families but never starts in others as is the case in Bantu In addition other special negation markers such as nominal negators are found to undergo similar processes i e they expand into the verbal domain and thereby develop into more general negation markers The book provides rich information on a specific path of the evolution of negation on cyclical processes in language change and it show cases the historical comparative method in a modern setting Religion That Heals, Religion That Harms

James L. Griffith,2010-08-09 From James L Griffith well known for his work on harnessing the healing potential of religion and spirituality this book helps clinicians to intervene effectively in situations where religion is causing harm Vivid examples illustrate how religious beliefs and practices may propel suicide violence self neglect or undue suffering in the face of medical or emotional challenges Griffith also unravels the links between psychiatric illness and distorted religious experience He demonstrates empathic respectful ways to interview patients who disdain contact with mental health professionals yet whose religious lives put themselves or others at risk The book incorporates cutting edge research on the psychology of religion and social neuroscience Religion and Human Purpose W. Horosz,Tad Clements,2012-12-06 The cross disciplinary studies in this volume are of special interest because they link human purpose to the present debate between religion and the process of secularization If that debate is to be a creative one the notion of the human orderer must be related significantly both to the sacred and secular realms In fact if man were not a purposive being he would have neither religious nor secular problems Questions about origins and destiny divine purposiveness and the order of human development would not arise as topics of human concern It would appear then that few would deny the fact of man s purposiveness in existence that the pursuit of these purposes constitutes the dramas of history and culture Yet the case is otherwise For concerning purposes itself widely divergent even antithetical views have been held The common man has mistrusted its guidance for purpose much too often changes its mind Its fluctuations and whimsical nature are too much even for common sense The sciences have identified purpose with the personal life and viewed it as a function of the subject self Consequently they had no need for it in scientific method and objective knowledge The religions of the world have used purpose in its holistic sense for purposes of establishing grandious systems of religious totality and for stating the ultimate goals in man s destiny The Committed Self Victor A. Shepherd,2015-01-03 The Committed Self is a clear and compelling introduction to Existentialism the root of Postmodernism and according to Victor A Shepherd still the most significant philosophy of our times Focusing on Hegel Kierkegaard Nietzsche Buber Heidegger and Sartre and their passionate commitment to the authenticity of the self Shepherd maintains that Existentialism has much to say to Christians with its understanding of What it is to be a human being How diverse forces operative in the world and in the psyche shape human self awareness The manner in which radical commitment forges and forms that self which is nothing less than a new birth Shepherd believes that an acquaintance with Existentialism will aid Christians in negotiating the minefield they think life has become And he persistently draws attention to the manner in which Existentialism recalls theology to its proper vocation whenever theology appears to be in danger of becoming a species of rationalism that uses religious vocabulary Social Work Treatment Francis J. Turner,2017 Social Work Treatment remains the most popular and trusted compendium of theories available to social work students and practitioners This treasure trove of practice knowledge equips professionals with a broad array of theoretical approaches each of which shine a spotlight on a different aspect of the human condition The Future Of Deterrence Robbin F Laird,Betsy Jacobs,2019-07-11 The editors would like to express their thanks to a number of colleagues whose insights and comments contributed to the development of the book Among those who were particularly helpful were Robert Nurick Vic Utgoff Mike Clarke Jorg Baldouf Jean Chabaud John Roper Edwina Moreton Lawrence Freedman Francois Heisbourg and Harley Balzer We are particularly grateful to General William Y Smith President of the Institute for Defense Analyses for his intellectual encouragement The Existentialist's Guide to Death, the
