China, an Analytical Survey of Literature United States. Department of the Army,1978      Deng Xiaoping and China's Foreign Policy Ronald Keith,2017-11-03 Deng Xiaoping is widely acknowledged as the principal architect of China's economic reforms but how far was he also responsible for shaping China's foreign policy which emphasized peace and development This book explores Deng's foreign policy and shows how he established basic principles for China to have a foreign policy which supported economic development which stressed harmony in the world rather than hegemony and which avoided conflict and nurtured a peaceful approach The book outlines how Deng worked to normalize relations with both the United States and the Soviet Union how he was disappointed by the lack of reciprocity by the United States where relations are still portrayed in terms of the China threat and how the principles established by Deng continue to be adhered to

An Analysis of the Sino-Soviet Dispute in Terms of United States Military Strategy in Vietnam William P. Reed,1966      Sino-Soviet Dialogue on the Problem of War S. Yin,2012-12-06 The author has spent upwards of ten years in working on this book His objective is to clarify the military aspect of the Moscow Peking dialogue which has not yet received its deserved treatment The apogee of that dialogue seems to have been passed toward the end of the rule of Khrushchev Yet the Vietnam war spawns fresh contention Our coverage will span the development from 1956 to the present The beginning of the dispute with regard to the origins of war in general is taken up in the first two chapters The next three chapters discuss the several types of war with the frame of reference set in what now appears to be a quondam era But the principle differences between the disputants are just as outstanding today as they were then The penultimate chapter is somewhat wide in scope in order to deal with the larger and more intensely bitter polemics evolving after Khrushchev left office There have been many new and startling views held by both sides since then views splitting them poles apart Obviously at issue now is the question of Sino Soviet peaceful coexistence Our work obviously cannot wait until that question is answered to be finished The final chapter concludes our study To write of subjects as dynamic as this one is a challenge because they are current affairs Due to the swift change of events no sooner is our typescript put to press than it needs a revision

From Adversaries to Partners? Ming-Yen Tsai, 2003-10-30 When China and Russia established a strategic partnership in 1996 both nations declared that they would further develop military cooperation in various fields Tsai examines the course of this military cooperation to reveal the nature of the military ties with the hopes of determining whether these two traditional adversaries have put aside historical legacies and mutual mistrust to create a full fledged military partnership After analyzing the motives and concerns of both powers Tsai concludes that while progress has been made in reducing military tensions in border regions the level of trust has not increased substantially The nature of these ties remains extremely fragile Among Western analysts there has been concern that a closer partnership might adversely affect U S interests in the region China and Russia have developed cooperation in certain areas such as arms transfers and military technical cooperation and these achievements have successfully reduced political tension However reciprocal threats against each other s territories and China s increasing ambitions and capacity to act as a great military power in the region could eventually become a major source of friction Based on research in both Chinese and Russian this study offers a comprehensive analysis on the development of and limits to this military cooperation
