The Excavation Of The Roman Villa In Gadebridge Park Hemel Hempstead 1963 8:

The Excavation of the Roman Villa in Gadebridge Park, Hemel Hempstead 1963-8 David S. Neal, 1974 This report describes the history of a villa from its simple beginnings in the first century AD to its heyday in the 4th century when the owner could boast one of the largest villa bath houses and a bathing pool comparable in size to the Great Bath at Bath The report is divided into two parts the excavations and the finds The Romano-British Villa at Castle Copse, Great Bedwyn E. P. Allison, 1997 These efforts have shed light not only on the history of the villa itself but also on the shifting focus of power over the course of a millennium at the sites associated with Castle Copse in the immediate region the Iron Age hillfort of Chisbury a post Roman settlement and a Saxon village destined to become an urban center The Roman Villa John Percival, 2023-11-15 Excavation of the Iron Age, Roman and Medieval settlement at Gorhambury, St Albans David S Neal, Angela Wardle, Jonathan Hunn, 2012-01-15 Gorhambury just north of Verulamium was the site of a substantial Roman villa complex which was excavated between 1972 and 1982 as part of a programme designed to test the interrelationships between villa sites in the Verulamium area and to examine trends in their growth decline and prosperity The villa was found to have grown out of a settlement belonging to the late Iron Age A series of ditches of this phase enclosed an aisled barn a nine post granary and a circular house these were the beginnings of a sequence of structures on the same spot which show increasing signs of Roman influence all of which lay within the limits of the farmstead established at this early period Timber buildings of the first half of the first century were followed around AD100 by a small but luxurious villa rebuilt in the late second century and thereafter in a gradual decline until its apparent abandonment around AD 350 Work on virtually the whole of the farmstead area has enabled a full sequence of plans of the main houses and all the ancillary structures including barns subsidiary housing and bath houses to be presented in the report The catalogue of finds is an attempt to show the full range of material recovered from this working farmstead Villas, Sanctuaries and Settlement in the Romano-British Countryside Martin Henig, Grahame Soffe, Kate Adcock, Anthony King, 2023-03-02 This volume brings together a range of papers on buildings that have been categorised as villas mainly in Roman Britain from the Isle of Wight to Shropshire It comprises the first such survey for almost half a century The Roman Cemetery at Lankhills Giles Clarke, 2021-12-16 This book considers the cemetery uncovered outside the north gate of Venta Belgarum Roman Winchester and analyses in detail both the graves and their contents There are detailed studies and important re assessments of many categories of object but it is the information about late Roman burial religion and society which is of special interest

Housing in Late Antiquity Luke Lavan, Lale Özgenel, Alexander Constantine Sarantis, 2007 This collection of papers arising from the conference series Late Antique Archaeology examines the housing in the late antique period through thematic and regional syntheses complemented by case studies and two bibliographic essays Kingdom, Civitas, and County Stephen Rippon, 2018-04-19 This book explores the development of territorial identity in the late prehistoric Roman and early medieval periods Over the course of the Iron Age a series of marked regional variations in material culture and landscape character emerged across eastern England that reflect the development of discrete zones of social and economic interaction The boundaries between these zones appear to have run through sparsely settled areas of the landscape on high ground and corresponded to a series of kingdoms that emerged during the Late Iron Age In eastern England at least these pre Roman socio economic territories appear to have survived throughout the Roman period despite a trend towards cultural homogenization brought about by Romanization Although there is no direct evidence for the relationship between these socio economic zones and the Roman administrative territories known as civitates they probably corresponded very closely The fifth century saw some Anglo Saxon immigration but whereas in East Anglia these communities spread out across much of the landscape in the Northern Thames Basin they appear to have been restricted to certain coastal and estuarine districts The remaining areas continued to be occupied by a substantial native British population including much of the East Saxon kingdom very little of which appears to have been Saxon By the sixth century a series of regionally distinct identities that can be regarded as separate ethnic groups had developed which corresponded very closely to those that had emerged during the late prehistoric and Roman periods These ancient regional identities survived through to the Viking incursions whereafter they were swept away following the English re conquest and replaced with the counties with which we are familiar today

Cattle and People Catarina Ginja, Elizabeth Wright, 2022-05-01 This volume originates in a conference session that took place at the 2018 International Council of Archaeozoology conference in Ankara Turkey entitled Humans and Cattle Interdisciplinary Perspectives to an Ancient Relationship The aim of the session was to bring together zooarchaeologists and their colleagues from various other research fields working on human cattle interactions over time The contributions in this volume reflect well the breadth of work being undertaken on the ancient relationship between humans and cattle across the continents of Europe Africa and Asia and from the late Pleistocene to postmedieval period Almost all involve the study of archaeological cattle remains and use different zooarchaeological methods but the combination of these approaches with that of ethnography isotopes and genetics is also featured Author Interview A Companion to Roman Architecture Roger B. Ulrich, Caroline K. Quenemoen, 2013-10-10 A Companion to Roman Architecture presents a comprehensive review of the critical issues and approaches that have transformed scholarly understanding in recent decades in one easy to reference volume Offers a cross disciplinary approach to Roman architecture spanning technology history art politics and archaeology Brings together contributions by leading scholars in architectural history An essential guide to recent scholarship covering new archaeological discoveries lesser known buildings new technologies and space and construction Includes extensive up to date bibliography and glossary of key Roman architectural terms The Iron Age in Northern Britain Dennis W. Harding, 2004-08-26 The Iron Age in Northern Britain examines the archaeological evidence for earlier Iron Age communities from the southern Pennines to the Northern and Western Isles and the impact of Roman expansion on local populations through to the emergence of historically recorded communities in the post Roman period The text has been comprehensively revised and expanded to include new discoveries and to take account of advanced techniques with many new and updated illustrations The volume presents a comprehensive picture of the long Iron Age allowing readers to appreciate how perceptions of Iron Age societies have changed significantly in recent years New material in this second edition also addresses the key issues of social reconstruction gender and identity as well as assessing the impact of developer funded archaeology on the discipline Drawing on recent excavation and research and interpreting evidence from key studies across Scotland and northern England The Iron Age in Northern Britain continues to be an accessible and authoritative study of later prehistory in the region Object and Economy in Medieval Winchester Martin Biddle, 2025-04-03 Over 6000 objects were recovered during the Winchester excavations 1961-1971 offering insight not only into the industries and arts but the economic cultural and social life of medieval Winchester This volume covers all the objects from the finest products of the Anglo Saxon goldsmith's skill to the iron tenter hooks of the cloth industry Romano-British Settlement and Cemeteries at Mucking Sam Lucy, Christopher Evans, 2016-11-30 Excavations at Mucking Essex between 1965 and 1978 revealed extensive evidence for a multiphase rural Romano British settlement perhaps an estate center and five associated cemetery areas 170 burials with different burial areas reserved for different groups within the settlement The settlement demonstrated clear continuity from the preceding Iron Age occupation with unbroken sequences of artefacts and enclosures through the first century AD followed by rapid and extensive remodeling which included the laying out a Central Enclosure and an organized water supply with wells accompanied by the start of large scale pottery production After the mid second century AD the Central Enclosure was largely abandoned and settlement shifted its focus more to the Southern Enclosure system with a gradual decline through the 3rd and 4th centuries although continued burial pottery and artefactual deposition indicate that a form of settlement continued possibly with some low level pottery production Some of the latest Roman pottery was strongly associated with the earliest Anglo Saxon style pottery suggesting the existence of a terminal Roman settlement phase that essentially involved an Anglo Saxon community Given recent revisions of the chronology for the early Anglo Saxon period this casts an intriguing light on the transition with radical implications for understandings of this period Each of the cemetery areas was in use for a considerable length of time Taken as a whole Mucking was very much a component place complex it was its respective parts that fostered its many cemeteries whose diverse rites reflect the variability and roles of the settlement s evidently varied inhabitants The Roman House in Britain Dominic Perring,2002-06 Recent studies have tended to seek explanations for the peculiarities of Romano British architecture in local tradition but this book shows how Britain embraced and elaborated Hellenistic ideas and spatial forms Roman houses were built to sustain power and Roman architecture gained currency in Britain because of its relevance to new political structures erected in the wake of conquest A Gazetteer of Roman Villas in Britain Eleanor Scott,1993 The Excavations of San Giovanni Di Ruoti: The small finds Alastair Small,C. J. Simpson,Richard Reece,Christopher John Simpson,J. J. Rossiter,1994-01-01 Between 1977 and 1984 the excavations of a Canadian archaeological team at San Giovanni di Ruoti in southern Italy uncovered a series of three Roman villas dating from the first to the sixth centuries AD The multi volume report on the excavation will provide the first comprehensive overview of the social and economic life of a Roman villa in southern Italy Volume II constitutes a catalogue raisonné of the small finds covering all categories of non ceramic personal domestic and industrial artifacts recovered from the site C J Simpson has been a member of the Canadian excavation team since 1979 He provides detailed descriptions of the individual artifacts their dates of manufacture and their use and discusses the evidence they yield for domestic and daily life The artifacts range from hairpins and brooches to iron knives used for slicing and chopping Coins and lamps found at the site are evaluated in separate contributions by R Reece and J J Rossiter The book includes several useful appendices notably one by Vito Volterra on the analysis of millstones The 400 items listed in the catalogue are illustrated by drawings or photographs This volume presents one of very few accounts of the household artifacts found at an estate centre remote from urban Rome It provides an important resource for specialists seeking to date similar objects and adds much interesting detail to our picture of the rural economy of Italy in late antiquity The Ending of Roman Britain A.S. Esmonde-Cleary,2002-11 This book explains what Britain was like in the fourth century AD and how this can only be understood in the wider context of the western Roman Empire The Romano-British Villa and Anglo-Saxon Cemetery at Eccles, Kent Nick Stoodley,Stephen R. Cosh,2021-11-11 This volume presents a study of the central and lower Medway valley during the 1st millennium AD focussing on the 1962 1976 excavation of the Eccles Roman villa and Anglo Saxon cemetery directed by Alex Detsicas The author gives an account of the long history of the villa and a reassessment of the architectural evidence which Detsicas presented Archaeology in Hertfordshire Kris Lockyear,2015-10-01 Celebrating the rich heritage of archaeology and of archaeological research in Hertfordshire the 15 papers collected in this work focus on various aspects of the region including the Neolithic to the post Medieval periods and include a report on the important excavations at the formative henge at Norton. Several chapters focus new attention on the Iron Age and Roman periods both from a landscape perspective and through detailed studies of artefacts while a discussion of the rare early Saxon material recently excavated at Watton at Stone makes a vital contribution to the existing corpus of knowledge about this little understood period. All of the papers in the volume focus on the local scene with an understanding of wider issues in each period and as a result the papers are of importance beyond the boundaries of the county and will be of interest to scholars with wide ranging interests.
