The English Sixth Form A Case Study In Curriculum Research:

The English Sixth Form Philip H. Taylor, W. A. Reid, B. J. Holley, 2022-04-29 First published in 1974 The English sixth form presents a comprehensive overview of the explicit characteristics and implications of sixth form courses in an institutional context and in relationship to other organizations The sixth form is an institution devoted mainly to providing an academic education for students who wish to remain in school beyond leaving age Sixth forms are not self contained institutions they consist of the top class or classes in secondary schools receiving pupils from age of 11 or 12 or less frequently 13 or 14 The book discusses crucial themes like the curriculum of the sixth form the attitudes of sixth form teachers to the curriculum the structure of the aims and objectives influences and constraints and the role of the universities This book is an essential read for scholars and researchers of secondary education school education and education in general

Thinking About The Curriculum (Routledge Revivals) William A Reid, 2013-10-14 First published in 1978 this book looks at the curriculum crisis of the 1970s examining the effect it has had for Curriculum Studies and curriculum policy making It focuses on a time when long established structures and procedures were challenged and schools were accused of having lost touch with the wants and needs of communities The author argues that the curriculum should become part of community interest and be led by this rather than by professionals and initiates Indeed he feels that the curriculum must have an identity which avoids alliances with technocrats bureaucrats or ideologues but yet has a positive philosophy and a commitment to good values

Curriculum as Institution and Practice William A. Reid, 2012-12-06 This volume brings together a collection of essays by William A Reid that present and elaborate the deliberative tradition of curriculum theory and examine the implications of a deliberative perspective for approaches to policy making and school systems The essays illustrate the development of Reid's understanding of the deliberative tradition and his efforts to extend it from a focus on practice to one that embraces conceptions of schooling as an institution Institution and practice are the key concepts which guide and illuminate the central thesis of the book To be effective a theory of curriculum must be able to talk not only about questions of desirable practice but also about questions of how practice may be aided or constrained by the nature of the institution within which it takes place This significant new contribution to the literature of curriculum studies represents a unique attempt to synthesize what have often been treated as quite separate issues questions of the philosophical basis for curriculum decision making questions of processes of decision making and questions of the nature of schools and classrooms presents its material in an evolutionary way focusing on the continuing development of ideas rather than on a rhetoric of conclusions and offers a summing up of thought and achievement in the deliberative tradition that is not otherwise available

Separate But Equal? Tony Edwards, Carol Fitz-Gibbon, Frank Hardman, Roy Haywood, Nick Meagher, 2005-08-19 This book looks in detail at the strong contrasts in the provision traditionally made for academically and vocationally minded students and looks at differences and similarities in practice The chapters report evidence of how students on both sides

think they have been taught They also report on how those students prefer to learn how their teachers define the kinds of learning appropriate for particular qualifications and how the organisation of learning for different but equal qualifications was observed in forty schools and colleges The book's main focus is on the objectives and processes of learning at a stage which is certainly being transformed but which is still powerfully shaped by myths about the sixth form and education of leaders Separate But Equal?, 1997 Looking in detail at the strong contrasts in the provision traditionally made for academically and vocationally minded students the authors discuss the differences and similarities in practice as observed in 40 schools and colleges Critical Criminology (Routledge Revivals) Ian Taylor, Paul Walton, Jock Young, 2013-01-11 First published in 1975 this collection of essays expands upon the themes and ideas developed in the editors' previous work the visionary and groundbreaking text The New Criminology Directed at orthodox criminology this is a partisan work written by a group of criminologists committed to a social transformation a transformation to a society that does not criminalize deviance Included are American contributions particularly from the School of Criminology at Berkeley represented by Hermann and Julia Schwendinger and Tony Platt together with essays by Richard Quinney and William Chambliss From Britain Geoff Pearson considers deviancy theory as misfit sociology and Paul Hirst attacks deviancy theory from an Althusserian Marxist position The editors contribute a detailed introductory essay extending the position developed in The New Criminology and two other pieces which attempt to continue the task of translating criminology from its traditional correctionalist stance to a commitment to socialist diversity and a crime free set of social arrangements Education in England and Wales Franklin Parker, Betty June Parker, 2018-02-06 Originally published in 1991 this title was begun just before passage of the Education Reform Act of 1988 ERA 88 which was implemented in the 1990s This major act along with still in force provisions of the 1944 Education Act with its 17 amendments comprises the statutes governing education in England and Wales The study reflects both the criticism and the praise showered on that important legislation particularly in the Brief History and School Structure sections and in Chapter 1 with its longer than usual annotations on ERA 88

Problems of a Sociology of Knowledge (Routledge Revivals) Max Scheler, 2012 First Published in 1980 Manfred S Frings translation of Problems of a Sociology of Knowledge makes available Max Scheler's important work in sociological theory to the English speaking world The book presents the thinker's views on man's condition in the twentieth century and places it in a broader context of human history This book highlights Scheler as a visionary thinker of great intellectual strength who defied the pessimism that many of his peers could not avoid He comments on the isolated fragmented nature of man's existence in society in the twentieth century but suggests that a World Age of Adjustment is on the brink of existence Scheler argues that the approaching era is a time for the disjointed society of the twentieth century to heal its fractures and a time for different forms of human knowledge to come together in global understanding The New Criminology Ian Taylor, Ian Taylor, M.B., Paul Walton, Jock Young, 2002-11 A major contribution to criminology in which Taylor Walton and Young provide a framework for a fully social theory of crime Corporate Communication for Management Students Srinivasulu Bitla, 2019-12-23 Corporate Communication for Management Students makes an assessment of the motivation and attitude of the learners and teachers besides evaluating the appropriateness of the instructional materials Having analyzed the corporate and professional factors the book appraises the evaluation pattern and the resources like infrastructure and supplementary materials An attempt has been made to design guidelines for revising the curriculum for corporate communication An analysis of curricula of different universities and business schools across India drawing from the proper understanding of the problems a model set of guidelines have been evolved for suitable curriculum of communication skills to the management students It is estimated that the book will definitely indulge the prospects of the experts of the innovations in designing curriculum of corporate communication Routledge Library Editions: Education Mini-Set B: Curriculum Theory 15 vol set Various, 2021-12-02 Mini set B Curriculum Theory re issues 15 volumes originally published between 1973 and 1993 and covers curriculum theory changes in curricula and the politics and sociology of the school curriculum Case Studies In Educational Change David Carter, 2012-10-12 This text the second in a two volume set examining the process of educational reform describes case studies on the change process of education as it impacts on the individual at work The authors provide interesting comparisons of similar changes occurring within education in different national settings including Australia New Zealand Israel the USA and the UK The case studies are based on three themes systematic change the transition from policy to practice and curriculum contexts The effects of governmental control over the curriculum and attempts to reform education by legislation are explained and the similarities are seen as marginalisation of professional educators corporatisation of education systems instrumentalisation of curriculum and the inability of those in power to draw from past knowledge on educational change Written to stand alone this book can also be read in conjunction with volume 1 International Perspectives on Educational Reform and Policy Implementation which examines the historical social and economic influences on education policy reform The authors argue that change takes a predictable format and once understood can be directed and managed The books are intended to be of interest to all involved in the planning and implementation of change together pointing the way to effective management of such change processes Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1976 Constructing History 11-19 Hilary Cooper, Arthur Chapman, 2009-07-09 This book describes and exemplifies strategies for teaching history across the 11 19 age range in rigorous and enjoyable ways It illustrates active learning approaches embedded in pupil led enquiries through detailed case studies which involve students in planning and carrying out historical enquiries creating accounts and presenting them to audiences in ways that develop increasingly sophisticated historical thinking The case studies took place in a number of different localities and show how practising teachers worked with pupils during each year from Y6 7 to Y 13 to initiate plan and implement enquiries and to present their findings in a variety of ways Each case study is a practical example which teachers can use as a model and modify for their own contexts showing how independent learning linked to group collaboration and peer assessment can enhance learning Social constructivist theories of learning applied to historical thinking underpin the book with particular emphasis on links between personalised and collaborative learning and e learning

EBOOK: IMAGES OF EDUCATIONAL CHANGE Herbert Altrichter, John Elliot, 2000-05-16 This important book takes a fresh look at educational change a concept which is in frequent use but rarely examined for the variety of meanings it conveys It brings together the ideas of major educational change theorists from three continents and invites the reader to explore the idea of educational change at a number of levels and from a variety of perspectives There is much talk about the pace of social change in and the growing complexity of industrial societies In this book a number of well known international researchers attempt to analyse the meaning of contemporary social change for education Particular emphasis is given to the implications for the personal and social development of students schools as organizations the school curriculum the teaching profession educational policy formation education research

Writing and Learning in Cross-national Perspective

David Foster, 2017-10-03 Despite the increasingly global implications of conversations about writing and learning U S composition studies has devoted little attention to cross national perspectives on student writing and its roles in wider cultural contexts Caught up in our own concerns about how U S students make the transition as writers from secondary school to postsecondary education we often overlook the fact that students around the world are undergoing the same evolution How do the students in China England France Germany Kenya or South Africa the educational systems represented in this collection write their way into the communities of their chosen disciplines How for instance do students whose mother tongue is not the language of instruction cope with the demands of academic and discipline specific writing And in what ways is U S students development as academic writers similar to or different from that of students in other countries With this collection editors David Foster and David R Russell broaden the discussion about the role of writing in various educational systems and cultures Students development as academic writers raises issues of student authorship and agency as well as larger issues of educational access institutional power relations system goals and students roles in society The contributors to this collection discuss selected writing purposes and forms characteristic of a specific national education system describe students agency as writers and identify contextual factors social economic linguistic cultural that shape institutional responses to writing development In discussions that bookend these studies of different educational structures the editors compare U S postsecondary writing practices and pedagogies with those in other national systems and suggest new perspectives for cross national study of learning writing issues important to all educational systems Given the worldwide increase in students entering higher education and the endless need for effective writing across disciplines and nations the insights offered here and the call for further studies are especially welcome and timely
