The Evil Eye Roswell Park, M D,2020-11-21 These thirteen gripping essays partake of the character of studies in that borderland of anthropology biology philology and history which surrounds the immediate domain of medical and general science They reflect a degree of careful historic inquiry unusual in the nonprofessional historian particularly if he be a medical man The topics range from the evil eye to the history of anesthesia from the discovery of the circulation to the phenomenology of death from a sympathetic character sketch of Giordano Bruno to snake worship There is an essay on the evolution of the surgeon from the barber Other topics include the occult frequently forgotten history constantly and what would now be considered quack medicine occasionally Advocating the use of cocaine as a pain killing agent and speaking at length even about military matters The Evil Eye is highly unusual and interesting now even as it must have been a century prior Notoir Books is a publisher of books on topics of esoteric interests eccentric memoirs overlooked history otherworldly stories and distinctive voices You can visit us at notoirbooks.com
