

A collection of depressant drugs is arranged on a rustic wooden surface. In the upper center, a clear glass ashtray is filled with numerous white cigarettes. To its right, a glass of amber-colored liquid, likely alcohol, is partially filled. On the left, a white pill bottle lies on its side, with several white, oval-shaped pills scattered around it. In the lower center, a red lighter and a blister pack of white, round tablets are visible. To the right of the blister pack, a syringe with an orange plunger and a white needle lies horizontally. In the bottom left corner, a small glass of water sits. The entire scene is set against a background of weathered wooden planks.
