The Stolen Child Jennifer Cook, 2011-01-03 Hazel is snatched from her mother at birth by her father Captain James Everett He intends to kill Hazel in revenge but finds he can not bring himself to leave his own flesh and blood exposed on a hillside Completely unprepared he sails with her to Canada and is driven to his wits end with the needs of a new born babe Without a second thought he gets help from a kind couple and guards over her as she grows. However, when Hazel is sixteen, Everett takes her from her family home. He intends to show her the world at sea, but Hazel is not pleased. Especially after the demise of her friend Molly by Everett's hand, or so as Hazel sees it. Diligently, Hazel plans and executes an elaborate escape from Everett that only leads her into another captivity. A secret admirer, Charlie, follows Hazel all the way from Canada to England. His dearest wish is to speak to her. Yet, through twists and turns, he falls in love with her twin sister, Lily. He goes into the depths of despair when Lily leaves him. Lily comes from a high-class family and is thrown into turmoil when she finds herself pregnant. She can't marry Charlie because he is so poor. Yet her family would be shocked to their roots to find her with child without a husband. Lily hides her pregnancy and her baby, but is at a loss about what to do next. Hazel is bought out of her captivity by her Aunt to meet her twin and mother for the first time. However, before Hazel does, she mistakenly comes across the baby hidden in Lily's drawer. The twins are shocked to meet each other but quickly become friends. Shortly after, they decide to run together. Lily, for the sake of her baby, and Hazel, to avoid Everett. They plan to make their home with Hazel's old teacher, Mademoiselle Fleur, who recently shifted from Canada back to France. All seems safe and straightforward as they leave their English home to catch the next boat to France. However, their maid, Kitty, is secretly working against them to ensure her pocket is lined. They find themselves in London with no money, a little baby, and a maid. In desperation, Hazel pretends to be a worker girl, but unbeknownst to her, she is employed by her father's friend for his sake, for when he returns from sea, he will want his daughter safe. However, on the day of Everett's arrival, Hazel hears of his return and slips through the fingers of her employers. Racing home to Lily and little Harry, Hazel tells Lily they must run from Everett. Kitty overhears their plan to leave her behind, so she steals little Harry to sell him to Lily's family. But Hazel catches her in time, snatching Harry back. The twins and Harry run on with no plan except for the hope their Uncle in Scotland will help them.

For decades, Nick Burns has been haunted by a decision he made as a young soldier in World War I when a French artist he'd befriended thrust both her paintings and her baby into his hands and disappeared. In 1974, with only months left to live, Nick enlists Jenny, a college dropout desperate for adventure, to help him unravel the mystery. The journey leads them from Paris galleries and provincial towns to a surprising place, the Museum of Tears, the life's work of a lonely Italian craftsman. Determined to find the baby and the artist, hopeless romantic Jenny and curmudgeonly Nick must reckon with regret, betrayal, and the lives they've left behind. With characteristic warmth and verve, Ann Hood captures a world of possibility and romance through the eyes of a young woman learning to
