

11 Simple Secrets: How To Stop Worrying & Be Happy

1. Name It, Process It & Diffuse It.

First, it's vital to acknowledge and name your worries. Now that you've named the worry and know what you're dealing with, process those thoughts. Take a few deep breaths, pause for a moment, go somewhere quiet or talk to someone you trust.

2. Use Relaxation To Interrupt the Worry.

Relaxation techniques help trigger your body's relaxation response which slows down your breathing, lowers blood pressure and reduces heart rate, so you feel calmer. Try deep breathing, visualization, prayer, progressive muscle relaxation or mindfulness activities.

3. Spy On Your Mood.

Mood tracking helps you identify patterns of negative or unhelpful thoughts and behaviours. It's a simple yet powerful technique to arm yourself against worry and feeling low by learning and identifying your triggers.

4. Focus On What You Want.

Focusing on what you want more of may sound obvious, but science points to how our thinking shapes our reality and can negatively impact us. Our brains are complex muscles and whatever you're focused on is what you'll have more of.

5. Schedule Your Worries.

Scheduling 'worry time' is a technique that many therapists use. The goal is to schedule worry time (not before bed) so you only worry for a short period. When the time is up, say a powerful command to yourself to stop worrying and then worry is off-limits for the rest of the day.

6. Let Go of The "What-If's."

"What-if" worrying causes harm because you worry about things out of your control or uncertainties. If you tend to worry about natural disasters, the future, if your kids will graduate, if you'll get an illness or the stock market, these types of worries are unhealthy. They become excessive worrying and can lead to mental health disorders, such as Generalized Anxiety Disorder.

7. Be a Self-Care Star.

There is NOTHING SELFISH about self-care. It's not about a full day at an expensive spa. Take 15-20 minutes a day to read, do a facial, stretch, go for a leisurely walk or whatever makes your heart happy and relaxes you. It'll be challenging to stop chronic worrying if you neglect self-care and do not prioritize your health.

8. Put Your Worries On Trial.

"Socratic questions" are a CBT technique used to challenge and reframe your negative thoughts and worries. Some examples:

- Is there any concrete evidence to support this thought?
- Is this a logical thought, or is it based on my feelings?

9. Let a Professional Step In.

If you worry excessively or are overwhelmed by worry, the best advice is to seek professional support from a registered psychotherapist. Knowing you need help is always the first step in healing. There's no shame in this; it takes courage and emotional intelligence.
