David B. Williams, 2019-08-19 Most people do not think to observe geology from the sidewalks of a major city but all David B Williams has to do is look at building stone in any urban center to find a range of rocks equal to any assembled by plate tectonics In Stories in Stone he takes you on explorations to find 3.5 billion year old rock that looks like swirled pink and black taffy a gas station made of petrified wood and a Florida fort that has withstood three hundred years of attacks and hurricanes despite being made of a stone that has the consistency of a granola bar Williams also weaves in the cultural history of stone explaining why a white fossil rich limestone from Indiana became the only building stone used in all fifty states how in 1825 the construction of the Bunker Hill Monument led to America's first commercial railroad and why when the same kind of marble used by Michelangelo clad a Chicago skyscraper it warped so much after nineteen years that all 44 000 panels of it had to be replaced This love letter to building stone brings to life the geology you can see in the structures of every city Stories in Stone

Lucy Ann Dunlop Purchases of this sort were rarities among Virginia's free black community and this particular gravestone is made more significant by Dunlop's choice of words his political advocacy and the racialized rhetoric of the period Carved by a pair of Richmond based carvers who like many other Southern monument makers contributed to celebrating and mythologizing the Lost Cause in the wake of the Civil War Lucy Ann's tombstone is a powerful statement of Dunlop's belief in the worth of all men and his hopes for the future Buried in 1925 by the white members of a church congregation and again in the 1960s by the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation the tombstone was excavated in 2003 Analysis conservation and long term interpretation were undertaken by the Foundation in partnership with the community of the First Baptist Church a historically black church within which Alexander Dunlop was a leader Stories in Stone Memorialization the Creation of History and the Role of Preservation examines the story of the tombstone through a blend of object biography and micro historical approaches and contrasts it with other memory projects like the remembrance of the Civil War dead Data from a regional survey of nineteenth century cemeteries historical accounts literary sources and the visual arts are woven together to explore the agentive relationships between monuments their commissioners their creators and their viewers and the ways in which memory is created and contested and how this impacts the history we learn and preserve
