Stone Webster 1889-1989 A Century Of Integrity Service:

Stone & Webster, 1889-1989 David Neal Keller, 1989 The Free-standing Company in the World Economy, 1830-1996 Mira Wilkins, Harm G. Schröter, 1998 Free standing companies are a special type of multinational enterprise that proliferated in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries some persisted into later years few remain today Many were headquartered in the United Kingdom but important free standing companies had headquarters in the other capital rich nations This book explores the history of the free standing company the theoretical implications of the concept comparisons with the American model multinational enterprise the validity of the concept and its contribution to the understanding of modern economic history Leading international scholars economists and historians provide evidence on and analysis of the operations of free standing companies in different parts of the world This is the first book on the much discussed topic of free standing companies The volume will provide a rich quarry for those interested in world economic history regional and national economic histories in the spread of international business and in the different forms that multinational enterprises take through time

Seattle-Everett Interurban Railway Cheri Ryan, Kevin K. Stadler, 2010 Operating for 29 years the Seattle Everett Interurban Trolley traveled over 29 miles of rail carrying passengers and freight to nearly 30 stops along its line In the first decade of the 1900s the Boston electrical engineering firm of Stone and Webster had designs of building an interurban electric railway system that would eventually connect Olympia Washington and Vancouver British Columbia To start the Seattle north link they purchased the existing Seattle Everett Interurban Railway Company from Fred E Sander in 1908 On the early morning of April 30 1910 the Seattle Everett Interurban Trolley made its inaugural run starting in Everett On February 20 1939 the trolley left Everett for its last run

Campsteading Derek Brereton, 2017-09-25 The campstead is an American institution After the Civil War with neo colonialism environmentalism and arts and crafts on the rise some families sought rural locations for rustic camps There they raised their children in the summertime Around Squam Lake after some eight generations twenty one such camps remain in these families The Squam area thus becomes a natural place to study relationships of persons and places families and landscape and humans and the world Our present concerns for environmental stewardship open space protection and core values instead of consumerism make this a good time to revisit the simple American Campstead Rustic camping itself revisited aspects of the American frontier Just as the western frontier was disappearing some families resorted to remnants of the first frontier among mountains and lakes of the Northeast Through campsteads these families preserved elements of the frontier ethos Campsteads facilitate particular experiences involving nature and family Brereton investigates campstead experience and through it the nature of human experience generally This book is the first detailed account of campsteading the first application of critical realism in anthropology and the first anthropological use of John Dewey's evolutionary model of experience Building on Dewey the author further analyses experience into its levels orders and features

Exporting American Architecture 1870-2000 Jeffrey W.

Cody,2005-06-27 The export of American architecture began in the nineteenth century as a disjointed set of personal adventures and commercial initiatives It continues today alongside the transfer of other aspects of American life and culture to most regions of the world Jeffrey Cody explains how why and where American architects planners building contractors and other actors have marketed American architecture overseas In so doing he provides a historical perspective on the diffusion of American building technologies architectural standards construction methods and planning paradigms Using previously undocumented examples and illustrations he shows how steel frame manufacturers shipped their products abroad enabling the erection of American style skyscrapers worldwide by 1900 and how this phase was followed by similar initiatives by companies manufacturing concrete components

The Electric Pullman Lawrence A. Brough,2013-04-18 A history of the Ohio railroad car and equipment company and its 16 year run Entering an already crowded and established industry the Niles Car Manufacturing Company in Ohio began business with surprising success producing well over 1 000 electric and steam railway cars cars so durable they rarely needed to be replaced That durability essentially put the company out of business and it vanished from the scene as quickly as it had appeared leaving little behind except its sturdy railway cars The story of this highly regarded company spans just 16 years from Niles s incorporation in 1901 to the abandonment of railway car production and sale of the property to a firm that would briefly build engine parts during World War I Including unpublished photographs and rosters of railway cars produced by the company and still in existence in railroad museums The Electric Pullman will appeal to railroad enthusiasts everywhere Praise for The Electric Pullman Required reading for anyone interested in interurban history It holds additional appeal for those interested in Ohio history or the junction point between business society and technology Lexington Quarterly Although not one of the major manufacturers in its field the Niles company produced some notable and well remembered equipment during the height of the electric interurban railway era Indeed among some interurban railway historians Niles cars are sacred objects As such its story deserves to be told and theoretically would be a logical complement to IUP s books on the Brill and Jewett companies Brough himself is a serious historian who knows his subject and has clearly mined all the sources that seem to exist Herbert H Harwood Jr author of The Railroad that Never Was and The New York Westchester Boston Railway

Globalization and Institutions Marie-Laure Djelic,Sigrid Quack,2003 This volume investigates the relationship between economic globalization and institutions or global governance challenging the common assumption that globalization and institutionalization are essentially processes which exclude each other Instead the contributors to this book show that globalization is better perceived as a dual process of institutional change at the national level and institution building at the transnational level Rich supporting empirical evidence is provided along with a theoretical conceptualization of the main actors mechanisms and conditions involved in trickle up and trickle down trajectories through which national institutional systems are being transformed and transnational rules emerge The book collectively argues that transnational institution building is one of the most striking features of the current period of internationalization As a consequence debates concerning globalization and global governance have to be reformulated The authors posit that globalization is not threatening governance but in fact globalization reflects a particular type of governance The dilemma therefore is not between globalization and institutions but between different meanings of governance and the balance that should be reached between them Globalization and Institutions will be of special interest to academics and scholars of institutional economics globalization and management However with its focus on two key debates for which there is clearly rising interest many social scientists will find the book of interest Building the Ultimate Dam

Donald Conrad Jackson, 1995 Placing Eastwood's work within a vibrant cultural milieu replete with power struggles among engineers corporate patrons and government bureaucrats Jackson illustrates how both technical and nontechnical issues affected the financing location and construction of dams Kinship and Landscape at Squam Lake, New Hampshire Derek Pomeroy Brereton, 2003 Scandinavian Perspectives on Management Consulting Steinar Bjartveit, Göran Roos, 2005
