Social Theory In Archaeology Foundations Of Archaeological Inquiry:

Social Theory in Archaeology Michael B. Schiffer, 2000 A handbook to an array of theoretical approaches that contribute something provocative or significant to the enterprise of constructing social theory in archaeology setting the agenda for future research

Social Theory in Archaeology Michael B. Schiffer, 2000 Since the debut of the New Archaeology in the 1960s approaches to the science of interpreting the material past have proliferated Seeking to find common ground in an increasingly fractious and polarized discipline a group of archaeological theorists representing various schools of thought gathered in a roundtable during the fall of 1997 As organizer Michael Schiffer sought to build bridges that might begin to span the conceptual chasms that have formed in archaeology during the past few decades Many participants in the roundtable accepted the challenge of building bridges but some rejected the premise that bridge building is desirable or feasible Even so every chapter in the resulting volume contributes something provocative or significant to the enterprise of constructing social theory in archaeology and setting the agenda for future social theoretic research With contributions from every major school of thought whether informed by evolutionary theory feminism chaos theory behavioralism or post processualism this volume serves as both handbook to an array of theoretical approaches and as a useful look at each school's response to criticism

Mound Builders and Monument Makers of the Northern Great Lakes, 1200-1600 Meghan C L Howey,2012-11-20 Rising above the northern Michigan landscape prehistoric burial mounds and impressive circular earthen enclosures bear witness to the deep history of the region s ancient indigenous peoples These mounds and earthworks have long been treated as isolated finds and have never been connected to the social dynamics of the time in which they were constructed a period called Late Prehistory In Mound Builders and Monument Makers of the Northern Great Lakes 1200 1600 Meghan C L Howey uses archaeology to make this connection She shows how indigenous communities of the northern Great Lakes used earthen structures as gathering places for ritual and social interaction which maintained connected egalitarian societies in the process Examining every available ceramic sherd from every northern earthwork Howey combines regional archaeological investigations with ethnohistory analysis of spatial relationships and collaboration with tribal communities to explore changes in the area s social setting from 1200 to 1600 During this time cultural shifts such as the adoption of maize horticulture led to the creation of the earthen constructions Burial mounds were erected marking claims to resources and defining areas for local ritual gatherings while massive circular enclosures were constructed as intersocietal ceremonial centers Together Howey shows these structures made up part of an interconnected purposefully designed cultural landscape When societies incorporated the earthworks into their egalitarian social and ritual behaviors the structures became something more ceremonial monuments The first systematic examination of earthen constructions in what is today Michigan Mound Builders and Monument Makers of the Northern Great Lakes 1200 1600 reveals complicated indigenous histories that played out in the area before European contact Howey s richly illustrated investigation increases our understanding of the diverse cultures and dynamic histories of the pre Columbian ancestors of today s Great Lake tribes

Persistent Traditions Luc W.S.W. Amkreutz,2013-12-19 The adoption of agriculture is one of the major developments in human history Archaeological studies have demonstrated that the trajectories of Neolithisation in Northwest Europe were diverse This book presents a study into the archaeology of the communities involved in the process of Neolithisation in the Lower Rhine Area 5500 2500 cal BC It elucidates the role played by the indigenous communities in relation to their environmental context and in view of the changes that becoming Neolithic brought about This work brings together a comprehensive array of excavated archaeological sites in the Lower Rhine Area Their analysis shows that the succession of Late Mesolithic Swifterbant culture Hazendonk group and Vlaardingeng culture societies represents a continuous long term tradition of inhabitation of the wetlands and wetland margins of this area forming a culturally continuous record of communities in the transition to agriculture After demonstrating the diversity of the Mesolithic the subsequent developments regarding Neolithisation are studied from an indigenous perspective Foregrounding the relationship between local communities and the dynamic wetland landscape the study shows that the archaeological evidence of regional inhabitation points to long term flexible behaviour and pragmatic decisions being made concerning livelihood food economy and mobility This disposition also influenced how the novel elements of Neolithisation were incorporated Animal husbandry crop cultivation and sedentism were an addition to the existing broad spectrum economy but were incorporated within a set of integrative strategies For the interpretation of Neolithisation this study offers a complementary approach to existing research Instead of arguing for a short transition based on the economic importance of domesticates and cultigens at sites this study emphasises the persistent traditions of the communities involved New elements instead of bringing about radical changes are shown to be attuned to existing hunter gatherer practices By documenting indications of the mentalit of the inhabitants of the wetlands it is demonstrated that their mindset remained essentially Mesolithic for millennia This book is accompanied by a separate 422 page volume containing the appendices These constitute a comprehensive inventory of 159 mostly excavated archaeological sites in the Lower Rhine Area

Uncertainty and

Sensitivity Analysis in Archaeological Computational Modeling Marieka Brouwer Burg, Hans Peeters, William A. Lovis, 2016-05-18 This volume deals with the pressing issue of uncertainty in archaeological modeling. Detecting where and when uncertainty is introduced to the modeling process is critical as are strategies for minimizing reconciling or accommodating such uncertainty. Included chapters provide unique perspectives on uncertainty in archaeological modeling ranging in both theoretical and methodological orientation. The strengths and weaknesses of various identification and mitigation techniques are discussed in particular sensitivity analysis. The chapters demonstrate that for archaeological modeling purposes there is no quick fix for uncertainty; indeed each archaeological model requires intensive consideration of uncertainty and specific applications for calibration and validation. As very few such techniques have been problematized in a systematic manner or published in the archaeological literature, this volume aims to provide guidance and direction to other modelers in the field by distilling some basic principles for model testing derived from insight gathered in the case studies presented. Additionally, model applications and their attendant uncertainties are presented from distinct spatio-temporal contexts and will appeal to a broad range of archaeological modelers. This volume will also be of interest to non-modeling archaeologists as consideration of uncertainty when interpreting the archaeological record is also a vital concern for the development of non-formal or implicit models of human behavior in the past.

The Archaeology of Kinship Bradley E. Ensor, 2013-12-05 Bradley Ensor shows how kinship can be a valuable tool for archaeologists. The Archaeology of Kinship explains how kinship is relevant to contemporary archaeological theory, detailing methods appropriate for archaeological analysis and provides long overdue solutions to problems plaguing ethnological hypotheses on the origins and contexts of kinship behaviors. The Historical Turn in Southeastern Archaeology Robbie Ethridge, Eric E. Bowne, 2020-11-03 This volume uses case studies to capture the recent emphasis on history in archaeological reconstructions of America's deep past, representing a profound shift in thinking about precolonial and colonial history and helping to erase the false divide between ancient and contemporary America.

Global Archaeological Theory Pedro Paulo Funari, Andrés Zarankin, Emily Stovel, 2006-04-07 Archaeological theory has gone through a great upheaval in the last 50 years from the processual theory which wanted to make archaeology more scientific to post-processual theory which understands that interpreting human behavior even of past cultures is a subjective study. This subjective approach incorporates a plurality of readings, thereby implying that different interpretations are always possible, allowing us to modify and change our ideas under the light of new information and/or interpretive frameworks. In this way, interpretations form a continuous flow of transformation and change and thus archaeologists do not uncover a real past but rather construct a historical past or a narrative of the past Post processual theory also incorporates a conscious and explicit political interest on the past of the scholar and the subject This includes fields and topics such as gender issues ethnicity class landscapes and consumption This reflects a conscious attempt to also decentralize the discipline from an imperialist point of view to an empowering one Method and theory also means being politically aware and engaged to incorporate diverse critical approaches to improve understanding of the past and the present This book focuses on the fundamental theoretical issues found in the discipline and thus both engages and represents the very rich plurality of the post processual approach to archaeology The book is divided into four sections Issues in Archaeological Theory Archaeological Theory and Method in Action Space and Power in Material Culture and Images as Material Discourse

Archaeological Theory Norman Yoffee, Andrew Sherratt, 1993-07-22 This volume assesses the real achievements of archaeology in increasing an understanding of the past Without rejecting the insights either of traditional or more recent approaches it considers the issues raised in current claims and controversies about what is appropriate theory for archaeology The first section looks at the process of theory building and at the sources of the ideas employed The following studies examine questions such as the interplay between expectation and evidence in ideas of human origins social role and material practice in the formation of the archaeological record and how the rise of states should be conceptualised further papers cover issues of ethnoarchaeology visual symbols and conflicting claims to ownership of the past The conclusion is that archaeologists need to be equally wary of naive positivism in the guise of scientific procedure and of speculation about the unrecorded intentions of prehistoric actors
