Speaking of Art P. Kivy, 2012-12-06 As the title of this book was meant to suggest its subject is the way we talk about and write about works of art or rather one of the ways namely the way we describe works of art for critical purposes Be cause I wished to restrict my subject matter in this way I have made a sharp and no doubt largely artificial distinction between describing and evaluating And I must at the outset guard against a misreading of this distinction to which I have left myself open In distinguishing between evaluative and descriptive aesthetic judgments I am not saying that when I assert X is p where p is a descriptive term like unified or delicate or garish I may not at the same time be evaluating X too and I am not saying that when I make the obviously evaluative assertion X is good I may not be describing X Clearly if I say X is unified I am evaluating X in that unity is a good making feature of works of art and as it is correct in English at least to call an evaluation a description I do not want to suggest that if an assertion is evaluative it cannot be descriptive although there have been many philosophers who have thought this indeed to be the case

The Art of Speaking James Burgh, 1782

Art as Unlearning John Baldacchino, 2018-12-12 Art as Unlearning makes an argument for art's unlearning as a mannerist pedagogy Art's pedagogy facilitates a form of forgetfulness by extending what happens in the practice of the arts in their visual auditory and performative forms The concept of learning has become predominantly hijacked by foundational paradigms such as developmental narratives whose positivistic approach has limited the field of education to a narrow practice within the social sciences This book moves away from these strictures by showing how the arts confirm that unlearning is not contingent on learning but rather anticipates and avoids it This book cites the experience and work of artists who by unlearning the canon have opened a diversity of possibilities by which we make and live the world Moving beyond clichés of art's teachability and what we have to learn through the arts it advances a scenario where unlearning is uniquely presented to us by the diverse practices that we identify with the arts The very notion of art as unlearning stems from and represents a fundamental critique of the constructivist pedagogies that have dominated arts education for over half a century This book will be of great interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of education philosophy of education history of education pedagogy of art and art education It will also appeal to educators art educators and artists interested in the pedagogy of art
