Speech Communication Ernest G. Bormann, Nancy C. Bormann, 1981 Microhistories of Communication Studies Pat Gehrke, 2018-04-19 The story of an academic discipline is usually conveyed in grand movements and long spans but it can also be told through the lives of individual scholars through the development of specialties through the creation and change of departments and through the formation and transformation of organizations Using twelve histories of micro dimensions of communication studies this volume shows how sometimes small decisions single scholars individual departments and marginalized voices can have dramatic roles in the history and future of an academic discipline As a compilation of micro histories with macro lessons this volume stands alone in communication studies Read as a companion to A Century of Communication Studies the National Communication Association s centennial volume it offers rich detail missing links and local narratives that fully flesh out the discipline In either case no education in communication studies is complete without an understanding of the themes challenges and triumphs embodied by the twelve micro histories offered in this book This book was originally published as two special issues of Review of Communication

Rereading Aristotle's Rhetoric Alan G. Gross,Arthur E.

Walzer, 2008-02-20 In this collection edited by Alan G Gross and Arthur E Walzer scholars in communication rhetoric and composition and philosophy seek to reread Aristotle's Rhetoric from a purely rhetorical perspective So important do these contributors find the Rhetoric in fact that a core tenet in this book is that all subsequent rhetorical theory is but a series of responses to issues raised by the central work The essays reflect on questions basic to rhetoric as a humanistic discipline Some explore the ways in which the Rhetoric explicates the nature of the art of rhetoric noting that on this issue the tensions within the Rhetoric often provide a direct passageway into our own conflicts
