manuscripts compilation in the early Middle Ages is still not well understood yet it is the key to the historical context surrounding medieval manuscript culture The practice of knowledge selection consisted of three key stages the intellectual selection of the textual content of manuscript collections the pragmatic action of arranging the textual content in a draft form by authors or editors and the material representation and aesthetic exposition of texts in manuscripts These stages were part of a linear development but also exercised reciprocal influence upon one another By tracing this process in surviving manuscript collections we can better understand in what practical ways knowledge was encoded and how these often innovative and experimental practices contributed to the emergence and consolidation of intellectual and scribal traditions This has important implications for how we understand education reform and the exercise of power in the early Middle Ages
