length exploration of the type scenes of western medieval literature from the ninth to the fifteenth centuries spanning both the Latinate and Germanic traditions Type scenes are the recurring stock scenes comprising the basic structure and cognitive guidance for narrative These formulaic scenes enabled medieval poets to express originality while honoring tradition Central to medieval poetic invention type scenes form the vital internal organs of narrative each serving a specialized function while working in concert with other organs to create and sustain the story This accessible and engaging guide to medieval type scenes consists of three parts Part I is a compendium of the type scenes commonly found in medieval narrative including analyses of examples from individual poems Part II explores combinations of type scenes within single works of literature for purposes of chronology characterization or virtuosity Part III examines how a single type scene manifests across multiple poems adapting to a variety of settings and periods while maintaining its original intent This volume kindles in scholars teachers and students alike a new and refreshing awareness of the foundational narrative strategies of medieval literature King Arthur in Antiquity Graham Anderson, 2004-03-01 This original and compelling study argues against the traditional identification of Arthur as a king in Celtic Britain Instead Graham Anderson explores the evidence for two much older figures known to classical writers as kings of Arcadia and Lydia over a millenium before He shows how these kings can be clearly connected with traditional Arthurian characters and adventure including an ancient Gawain a Lady of Shallott and a predecessor of Excalibur and shows that the Arthurian universe found in Welsh tales and French romances is already anticipated in these earliest of Arthurian materials This radical reassessment of the Arthurian legends provides a new perspective on on age old historical puzzle
