Death in Late Bronze Age Greece Joanne M. A.

Murphy,2020-01-06 Late Bronze Age tombs in Greece and their attendant mortuary practices have been a topic of scholarly debate for over a century dominated by the idea of a monolithic culture with the same developmental trajectories throughout the region This book contributes to that body of scholarship by exploring both the level of variety and of similarity that we see in the practices at each site and thereby highlights the differences between communities that otherwise look very similar By bringing together an international group of scholars working on tombs and cemeteries on mainland Greece Crete and in the Dodecanese we are afforded a unique view of the development and diversity of these communities The papers provide a penetrative analysis of the related issues by discussing tombs connected with sites ranging in size from palaces to towns to villages and in date from the start to the end of the Late Bronze Age This book contextualizes the mortuary studies in recent debates on diversity at the main palatial and secondary sites and between the economic and political strategies and practices throughout Greece The papers in the volume illustrate the pervasive connection between the mortuary sphere and society through the creation and expression of cultural narratives and draw attention to the social tensions played out in the mortuary arena

1887 when W R Paton discovered Mycenaean chamber tombs in the side of the torrent bed which runs into the harbour of Pothia to the east of the hill of Perakastro where the Late Bronze Age settlement stood Most of the vessels found from Paton were presented to the British Museum while others are preserved in other European Museums The first systematic excavations however took place only in the early twenties of the past century when the Italian archaeologist A Maiuri director of the archaeological exploration of the then Italian islands of the Dodecanese excavated the three prehistoric caves of Ayia Varvara 1920 Choiromandres 1921 and Vathy Dhaskalio 1922 which are the object of the present study

Death in Mycenaean Lakonia (17th to 11th c. BC) Chrysanthi Gallou, 2019-12-27 A Silent Place Death in Mycenaean Lakonia is the first book length systematic study of the Late Bronze Age LBA burial tradition in south eastern Peloponnese Greece and the first to comprehensively present and discuss all Mycenaean tombs and funerary contexts excavated and or simply reported in the region from the 19th century to present day The book will discuss and reconstruct the emergence and development of the Mycenaean mortuary tradition in Lakonia by examining the landscape of death the burial architecture the funerary and post funerary customs and rituals and offering patterns over a longue dur e The author proposes patterns of continuity from the Middle Bronze Age even the Early Bronze Age in terms of burial architecture to the LBA and equally important from the Late Bronze Age to the Early Iron Age and reconstructs diachronic processes of invention of tradition and identity in Mycenaean communities on the basis of tomb types and their material culture The text highlights the social political and economic history of Late Bronze Age Lakonia from the evolution of the Mycenaean civilisation and the establishment of palatial administration in the Spartan vale to the demise of Mycenaean culture and the turbulent post collapse centuries as reflected by the burial offerings The book also brings to publication the chamber tombs at Epidavros Limera that remained largely unpublished since their excavation in the 1930s and 1950s Epidavros Limera was one of the most important prehistoric coastal sites in prehistoric southern Greece early 3rd late 4th millennium BC and one of the main harbour towns of the Mycenaean administrative centres of central Lakonia It is one of very few Mycenaean sites that flourished uninterruptedly from the emergence of the Mycenaean civilisation until after the collapse of the palatial administration and into the transition to the Early Iron Age The present study of the funerary architecture and of the pottery from the tombs suggests that the site was responsible for the introduction of the chamber tomb type on the Greek mainland in the latest phase of the Middle Bronze Age definitely no later than the transitional Middle Bronze Age Late Bronze Age period and not in the early phase of the Late Bronze Age Late Helladic I as previously assumed masterly work of historical inquiry about one of the world's most famous women The Greek Way of Death Robert Garland, 2001 Death for the Greeks was not an instantaneous event rather a process or passage which required strenuous efforts on the part of the living to ensure that the dead achieved full and final transfer to the next world The central questions which this book attempts to answer are the extent to which death was a preoccupying concern among the Greeks the feelings with which the individual may have anticipated his death the nature of the bonds between the living and the dead and the light shed by burial practices upon characteristic elements of Greek society While the beliefs of ordinary Greeks about their ordinary dead form the book's central focus there is also a chapter on special dead the unburied murderers and their victims children and suicides BOOK JACKET The Early Iron Age Cemetery at Torone John K. Papadopoulos, 2005-12-31 Recipient of the Jo Anne Stolaroff Cotsen Prize This volume publishes the excavation and analysis of the Early Iron Age cemetery at Torone in Chalkidike in the north Aegean Greece Spanning the period between the twelfth or eleventh century down to ca 850 BC the cemetery represents one of the few burial grounds of the period in Greece to have been excavated virtually in its entirety yielding 134 tombs of which 118 were cremations and 16 inhumations The End of the Early Bronze Age in the Aegean Gerald Cadogan, 2023-08-21 Mycenaean Achaia Thanasis J. Papadopoulos, 1978 Early Cycladic Sculpture in Context Marisa Marthari, Colin Renfrew, Michael J. Boyd, 2017-01-04 The sculpture of the early bronze age Cyclades has been systematically studied since the time of Christos Tsountas at the end of the 19th century But that study has been hampered by the circumstance that so many of the subsequent finds come from unauthorized excavations where the archaeological context was irretrievably lost Largely for that reason there are still many problems surrounding the chronology the function and the meaning of Early Cycladic sculpture This lavishly illustrated and comprehensive reassessment sets out to rectify that situation by publishing finds which have been recovered in controlled excavations in recent years as well as earlier finds for which better documentation can now be provided Using the material from recent excavation projects and drawing on the papers presented at a symposium held in Athens in 2014 it is possible now to undertake a fresh overview of the entire body of sculpture from the Cycladic islands which has been found in secure archaeological contexts Beginning with early examples from Neolithic settlement sites and extending into a consideration of material found in later contexts the 35 chapters are divided into sections which examine sculpture from settlements cemeteries and the sanctuary at Kavos concluding with a discussion of material techniques and aspects of manufacture
