Kirman and the Qajar Empire James M Gustafson, 2015-07-16 Despite its apparently peripheral location in the Qajar Empire, Kirman was frequently found at the centre of developments reshaping Iran in the 19th century. Over the Qajar period, the region saw significant changes as competition between Kirmani families rapidly developed commercial cotton and opium production and a world renowned carpet weaving industry, as well as giving strength to radical modernist and nationalist agitation in the years leading up to the 1906 Constitutional Revolution. Kirman and the Qajar Empire explores how these Kirmani local elites mediated political, economic, and social change in their community during the significant transitional period in Iran's history from the rise of the Qajar Empire through to World War I. It departs from the prevailing centre-periphery models of economic integration and Qajar provincial history, engaging with key questions over how Iranians participated in reshaping their communities in the context of imperialism and growing transnational connections. With rarely utilized local historical and geographical writings, as well as a range of narrative and archival sources, this book provides new insight into the impact of household factionalism and estate building over four generations in the Kirman region. As well as offering the first academic monograph on modern Kirman, it is also an important case study in local dimensions of modernity. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of Iranian studies and Iranian history, as well as general Middle Eastern studies.

Studies in Babi and Baha'i History Moojan Momen, 2006 This is the first collection of scholarly essays on the history of the Bahá'í Faith to be published as a book. Included are the works of five scholars who have conducted original research on specific aspects of the Bábí and Bahá'í religions. Two essays are concerned with Bahá'í history in Iran. Denis MacEoin's provocative paper traces the first years of interaction and conflict between the Shaykh School and the emerging Bábí Movement. Moojan Momen provides a fascinating account of the relations of Christian missionaries in Iran with Bábí and Bahá'í. The three remaining essays discuss American

Bah history Peter Smith's comprehensive survey of the American community from 1894 to 1917 adds substantially to our knowledge of that period William Collins offers an in depth study of the Bah's of Kenosha Wisconsin where one of the first Bah communities was established Finally Loni Bramson Lerche examines the development of Bah administrative procedures from 1922 to 1936 This is the first volume in the Studies Series and remains a classic work of Bah history It is a basic text for any study of the history of the Bah Faith Comments about the series include The series demonstrates both that a critical mass of young scholars interested in these movements have formed that the Baha'i community in the U S can now support academic books on the religion British Society for Middle Eastern Studies Bulletin much more work needs to be done on Baha'i history in Iran that process is now underway this collection carries it further Middle East Journal There is a mass of information here that could be used in more comparative or theoretically oriented studies Iranian Studies a fascinating volume which offers much new information on the development of a modern faith Religious Studies Review This volume is well worth reading by anyone seriously interested in religion in modern Iran British Society for Middle Eastern Studies Bulletin
