Washington University St Louis Edward Zigler Yale University Classic Anthropology John W. Bennett, 2017-11-30
 Classic anthropology is Bennett's label for the work produced by anthropologists between 1915 and 1955. In this book Bennett criticises classic anthropology for neglecting the contemporary world and modern societies Documentary Research in Education, History, and the Social Sciences Gary McCulloch, 2004. This up-to-date examination of how to research and utilise documents analyses texts from the past and present considering sources ranging from personal archives to online documents and including books, reports, official documents and printed media Being Reflexive in Critical and Social Educational Research Geoffrey Shacklock, John Smyth, 2002-11-01. This text is a collection of case studies and readings on the subject of doing research in education. It takes a personal view of the experience of doing research. Each author presents a reflexive account of the issues and dilemmas as they have lived through them during the undertaking of educational research. Coming from the researcher's own perspectives, their positions are revealed within a wider space that can be personal, political, social and reflexive. With this approach, many issues such as ethics, gender, race, validity, reciprocity, sexuality, class, voice, empowerment, authorship and readership are given an airing Understanding Social Research George McKenzie, Jane Powell, Robin Usher, 2005-08-04. In 1991 the Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC) published Postgraduate Training Guidelines. Throughout the document emphasis is placed on the need for universities to make postgraduate research students aware of the methodological issues that affect their work. This text explores the relationship between knowledge, methodology and research practice across the broad spectrum of the social sciences in language that is accessible to researchers at all levels of their research careers. It follows the themes that there is no single practice or correct methodology and that the diversity and variety in terms of methodology and disciplinary focus are a sign of the sophistication and complexity of the processes of social research. The text examines socio-cultural contexts of social research and relates them to contemporary shifts in focus such as feminism, critical theory and postmodernism. The importance of selecting the research methodology most appropriate to the subject discipline concerned is emphasized Research Strategies for Community Practice Ray H. Macnair, 2014-05-01. In Research Strategies for Community Practice you will discover how you can more effectively work together with other practitioners and researchers in the interests of knowledge development and practice assessment. You will also gain access to the conceptual rationale, research design process and research utilization process necessary for success in the context of community organizing. Research Strategies for Community Practice raises crucial issues for you and other community practitioners. In chapters on historical research strategies you will discover the need for reform in research procedures which will aid you in setting goals, establishing political agendas and exploring new policy directions. In the chapters covering community network analysis you will find human service and support systems. Specifically, your understanding of this vital area of community practice will develop and flourish in these and many other important areas: uses of historical research, assessment, planning and evaluation through network that for narrative research to be effective we need to see narrative in a multi disciplinary perspective The book examines models of narrative analysis currently proposed in linguistics sociology psychology anthropology and literature and applies insights from these disciplines to the study of teachers narratives The author proposes an alternative approach to studying narratives which is then applied to original data demonstrating how narrative analysis can be used to study primary teachers perceptions of their work It is suggested that narrative analysis could be used to study the perceptions or culture of any professional group
