Writing Lovers Méira Cook, 2005 Is it possible to capture something as ephemeral as love with mere words M ira Cook draws on Lacan Derrida Barthes and Kristeva to wrestle with the theoretical problems of representing the unrepresentable In Writing Lovers she searches for a language adequate to articulating the discourse of passion desire and longing in the love poetry of Dionne Brand Elizabeth Smart Daphne Marlatt Dorothy Livesay Kristjana Gunnars and Nicole Markotic In writings by the French post structuralists rhetorical tropes such as speechlessness fragmentation and deflection testify to the writer s difficulty in broaching the subject of love Similarly Cook shows that love poetry proceeds out of a profound failure of language resulting from the opacity of discourse its lack of neutrality or the fugitive transparency of reference Writing Lovers also explores race ethnicity age and sexual identity within the context of the passionate excesses of amatory discourse

Indigenous Poetics in Canada Neal McLeod, 2014-05-16 Indigenous Poetics in Canada broadens the way in which Indigenous poetry is examined studied and discussed in Canada Breaking from the parameters of traditional English literature studies this volume embraces a wider sense of poetics including Indigenous oralities languages and understandings of place Featuring work by academics and poets the book examines four elements of Indigenous poetics First it explores the poetics of memory collective memory the persistence of Indigenous poetic consciousness and the relationships that enable the Indigenous storytelling process The book then explores the poetics of performance Indigenous poetics exist both in written form and in relation to an audience Third in an examination of the poetics of place and space the book considers contemporary Indigenous poetry and classical Indigenous narratives Finally in a section on the poetics of medicine contributors articulate the healing and restorative power of Indigenous poetry and narratives

The Oxford Handbook of Indigenous American Literature James Howard Cox, Daniel Heath Justice, 2014 Over the course of the last twenty years Native American and Indigenous American literary studies has experienced a dramatic shift from a critical focus on identity and authenticity to the intellectual cultural political historical and tribal nation contexts from which these Indigenous literatures emerge The Oxford Handbook of Indigenous American Literature reflects on these changes and provides a complete overview of the current state of the field The Handbook s forty three essays organized into four sections cover oral traditions poetry drama non fiction fiction and other forms of Indigenous American writing from the seventeenth through the twenty first century Part I attends to literary histories across a range of communities providing for example analyses of Inuit Chicana o Anishinaabe and M tis literary practices Part II draws on earlier disciplinary and historical contexts to focus on specific genres as authors discuss Indigenous non fiction emergent trans Indigenous autobiography Mexicanoh and Spanish poetry Native drama in the U S and Canada and even a new Indigenous children s literature canon The third section delves into contemporary modes of critical inquiry to expound on politics of place comparative Indigenism trans Indigenism Native rhetoric and the power of Indigenous writing to communities of readers A final section thoroughly explores the geographical breadth and expanded definition of Indigenous American through detailed accounts of literature from Indian Territory the Red Atlantic the far North Yucatán Amerika Samoa and Francophone Quebec Together the volume is the most comprehensive and expansive critical handbook of Indigenous American literatures published to date It is the first to fully take into account the last twenty years of recovery and scholarship and the first to most significantly address the diverse range of texts secondary archives writing traditions literary histories geographic and political contexts and critical discourses in the field     Acts of Narrative Resistance Laura J. Beard, 2009-10-01 This exploration of women's autobiographical writings in the Americas focuses on three specific genres testimonio metafiction and the family saga as the story of a nation What makes Laura J Beard's work distinctive is her pairing of readings of life narratives by women from different countries and traditions Her section on metafiction focuses on works by Helena Parente Cunha of Brazil and Luisa Futoransky of Argentina the family sagas explored are by Ana María Shua and Nilda Piñón of Argentina and Brazil respectively and the section on testimonio highlights narratives by Lee Maracle and Shirley Sterling from different Indigenous nations in British Columbia In these texts Beard terms genres of resistance women resist the cultural definitions imposed upon them in an effort to speak and name their own experiences The author situates her work in the context of not only other feminist studies of women's autobiographies but also the continuing study of inter American literature that is demanding more comparative and cross cultural approaches Acts of Narrative Resistance addresses prominent issues in the fields of autobiography comparative literature and women's studies and in inter American Latin American and Native American studies     American Indian Literature Kimberly Wieser-Weryackwe, 2025-07-10 Discover the essential people works movements and themes in American Indian literature American Indian literature is a varied and vibrant collection of Indigenous artistic expression American Indian novelists poets essayists and critics have over the last four centuries asserted powerful forms of intellectual and artistic sovereignty writing in English while building on discrete tribal oral traditions and forms of storytelling This encyclopedia introduces readers to the key historical and contemporary figures in American Indian literature and their defining works From the fiery sermons of Methodist minister William Apsess to the Pulitzer Prize winning novel House Made of Dawn by N Scott Momaday to the critically acclaimed and commercially successful novels of Louise Erdrich this book illustrates the indelible and influential imprint American Indians have on the landscape of American letters Readers are also introduced to the key themes and context of American Indian literature exploring how it is inextricable from American literary history the American literary canon and the narrative of American history not on the fringes of the American experience but central to it     Creative Alliances Molly McGlennen, 2014-08-04 Tribal histories suggest that Indigenous peoples from many different nations continually allied themselves for purposes of fortitude mental and physical health and creative affiliations Such alliance building Molly

McGlennen tells us continues in the poetry of Indigenous women who use the genre to transcend national and colonial boundaries and to fashion global dialogues across a spectrum of experiences and ideas One of the first books to focus exclusively on Indigenous women's poetry Creative Alliances fills a critical gap in the study of Native American literature McGlennen herself an Indigenous poet critic traces the meanings of gender and genre as they resonate beyond nationalist paradigms to forge transnational forms of both resistance and alliance among Indigenous women in the twenty first century McGlennen considers celebrated Native poets such as Kimberly Blaeser Ester Belin Diane Glancy and Luci Tapahonso but she also takes up lesser known poets who circulate their work through social media spoken word events and other nonliterary forums Through this work McGlennen reveals how poetry becomes a tool for navigating through the dislocations of urban life disenrollment diaspora migration and queer identities McGlennen's Native American Studies approach is inherently interdisciplinary Combining creative and critical language she demonstrates the way in which women use poetry not only to preserve and transfer Indigenous knowledge but also to speak to one another across colonial and tribal divisions In the literary spaces of anthologies and collections and across social media and spoken word events Indigenous women poets are mapping cooperative alliances In doing so they are actively determining their relationship to their nations and to other Indigenous peoples in uncompromised and uncompromising ways

Teaching Creative Writing in Canada Darryl Whetter, 2024-12-04 Teaching Creative Writing in Canada maps the landscape of Creative Writing programmes across Canada Canada's position both culturally and physically as a midpoint between the two major Anglophone influences on Creative Writing pedagogy the UK and the USA makes it a unique and relevant vantage for the study of contemporary Creative Writing pedagogy Showcasing writer professors from Canada's major Creative Writing programmes the collection considers the climate crisis contemporary workshop scepticism curriculum design programme management prize culture grants and interdisciplinarity Each chapter concludes with field tested writing advice from many of Canada's most influential professors of fiction poetry creative nonfiction and drama This authoritative volume offers an important national perspective on contemporary and timeless issues in Creative Writing pedagogy and their varied treatment in Canada It will be of valuable to other creative teachers and practitioners those with an interest in teaching and learning a creative art and anyone working on cultural and educational landscapes

Introduction to Indigenous Literary Criticism in Canada Heather Macfarlane, Armand Garnet Ruffo, 2015-12-18 Introduction to Indigenous Literary Criticism in Canada collects 26 seminal critical essays indispensable to our understanding of the rapidly growing field of Indigenous literatures The texts gathered in this collection selected after extensive consultation with experts in the field trace the development of Indigenous literatures while highlighting major trends and themes including appropriation stereotyping language land spirituality orality colonialism residential schools reconciliation gender resistance and ethical scholarship

The Holy Land in Transit Steven Salaita, 2015-02-01 Steven Salaita's ambitious and thought provoking work compares the dynamics of settler colonialism in the United States related to Native Americans with the circumstances in Israel related to the Palestinians revealing the way in which politics influences literary production The author's original approach is based not on similarities between the two disparate settler regions but rather on similarities between the rhetoric employed by early colonialists in North America and that employed by Zionist immigrants in Palestine Meticulously examining histories theories and literary depictions of colonialism and its interethnic dialects Salaita identifies the commonalities in the myths employed by both groups as well as the counter discourse cultivated in the literature of resistance by native peoples He complements his analysis with personal observations of Palestinians in Lebanese refugee camps where he encountered a sympathetic perception of American Indians The Holy Land in Transit presents one of the first intercommunal studies to assess the ways in which indigenous authors react to analogous colonial dynamics With great perception and energy the author offers a fresh contribution to an emerging frame of reference for historical political literary and cultural investigation

Therapeutic Nations Dian Million, 2013-09-26 Self determination is on the agenda of Indigenous peoples all over the world This analysis by an Indigenous feminist scholar challenges the United Nations based human rights agendas and colonial theory that until now have shaped Indigenous models of self determination Gender inequality and gender violence Dian Million argues are critically important elements in the process of self determination Million contends that nation state relations are influenced by a theory of trauma ascendant with the rise of neoliberalism Such use of trauma theory regarding human rights corresponds to a therapeutic narrative by Western governments negotiating with Indigenous nations as they seek self determination Focusing on Canada and drawing comparisons with the United States and Australia Million brings a genealogical understanding of trauma against a historical filter Illustrating how Indigenous people are positioned differently in Canada Australia and the United States in their articulation of trauma the author particularly addresses the violence against women as a language within a greater politic The book introduces an Indigenous feminist critique of this violence against the medicalized framework of addressing trauma and looks to the larger goals of decolonization Noting the influence of humanitarian psychiatry Million goes on to confront the implications of simply dismissing Indigenous healing and storytelling traditions Therapeutic Nations is the first book to demonstrate affect and trauma's wide ranging historical origins in an Indigenous setting offering insights into community healing programs The author's theoretical sophistication and original research make the book relevant across a range of disciplines as it challenges key concepts of American Indian and Indigenous studies      When the Other is Me Emma LaRocque, 2011-03-10 In this long awaited book from one of the most recognized and respected scholars in Native Studies today Emma LaRocque presents a powerful interdisciplinary study of the Native literary response to racist writing in the Canadian historical and literary record from 1850 to 1990 In When the Other is Me LaRocque brings a metacritical approach to Native writing situating it as resistance literature within and outside the postcolonial intellectual context She outlines the overwhelming evidence of dehumanization in Canadian historical and literary writing its effects on both popular culture and Canadian intellectual development and Native and non Native intellectual responses to it in light of the interlayered mix of romanticism exaggeration of Native difference and the continuing problem of internalization that challenges our understanding of the colonizer colonized relationship
