Special Educational Needs In Practice:

Contemporary Issues In Special Educational Needs: Considering The Whole Child Armstrong, David, Squires, Garry, 2012-05-01 This book presents a stimulating and up to date overview of the context of education in SEN and suggests how educators can address special needs most effectively by keeping in mind an image of the development of the whole child. The editors have assembled an impressive range of thought provoking contributions to the ongoing debate on the actual the possible and the ideal responses that our education system makes or could make to the needs of its most vulnerable students. Tony Cline Educational Psychology Group University College London UK This book provides readers with a fresh often incisive approach to many perennial issues in education. These include but are not limited to socio political agendas in inclusion labelling learners self esteem and the delicate balance between different specialists within school systems that must be achieved in the best interest of the child with or without special educational needs and disabilities. Although written for a UK readership the editors have ensured that the content of most chapters transcends national and systems boundaries with a healthy balance between psychological educational theory and its real world application in contexts that may not be instantly responsive to the child's changing needs. Dr Victor Martinelli University of Malta Malta This book provides a welcome overview and commentary on current complex issues and problems affecting all those with an interest in children and young people with special educational needs. Ranging as it does from matters surrounding individuals such as labelling therapeutic work and self esteem to wider political historical and socio cultural influences it provides the reader with a challenging informed and critical set of perspectives. Its strength is the manner in which it tackles complex issues providing thought provoking views for those well versed in the world of special educational needs but also ensuring clear comprehensive background information for novice readers of this topic. This book is an excellent compilation of relevant contemporary pieces thoughtfully woven together by highly skilled well placed editors. Jane Leadbetter University of Birmingham UK This thought provoking and accessible book provides an overview of key issues in the education of children with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities. Written by highly experienced practitioners and educationalists the book explores a range of approaches for working with this diverse group of learners and invites you to consider your possible responses. The book begins with an historical overview of Special Educational Needs and Disabilities and a critical guide to current policy. The contributors then expertly explore and summarise many of the fascinating topics which arise in practice and scholarly research in this area including Ethical and practical implications of labelling children and young people with forms of special educational needs or disability. The role of special schools particularly in light of enduring debates about inclusion exclusion. What increased student participation student voice and other facets of a democratic classroom mean for students with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities. The contributions psychology can make to developing and enriching educational practice. Understanding behaviour in relation to children and young people with Special Educational Needs and

Disabilities Case studies are used to illustrate these discussions and the book includes suggested protocols for good practice throughout Throughout the book the reader is asked to reflect on the issues presented and come to their own decisions about what represents good practice in their setting The journey concludes with a look at a possible ideal school or educational setting for children with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities Contemporary Issues in Special Educational Needs is an invaluable guide for trainee and qualified teachers learning support staff SENCO s local authority officers educational consultants and educational psychologists

Special Educational Needs and Inclusive Practices Fabio Dovigo,2017-01-28 Today school is becoming a rapidly changing learning environment Thinking about students as a homogeneous population is no longer allowed as diversity in terms of culture language gender family organisation learning styles and so on has emerged as a key challenge for education today The debate on Special Educational Needs largely reflects this challenge as working in school implies careful reconsideration of what we mean by normal and special Current educational intervention is generally based on a deficit and within child model of facing SEN whereas very little attention is given to the role of learning environments The focus is on the child more than on the whole class and on cognition and technical provisions more than on affective sociocultural and community dimensions of learning Conversely regarding students and their needs as hidden voices allows us to adopt a transformative approach which sees diversity as a stimulus for the development of educational practices that might benefit all children and help school to become an inclusive and moving organisation The aim of the book is twofold on the one hand it offers a systematic overview of the inclusive education state of the art in six countries Germany Italy Norway Sweden UK and USA based on the contributions by well known scholars such as Christy Ashby Barbara Brokamp Fabio Dovigo Kari Nes Mara Westling Allodi Tony Booth and Beth Ferri on the other hand the book analyses five cases of good practices of inclusion related to different subjects and school levels

Advancing inclusive education for students with special educational needs: Rethinking policy and practice Stephen Hay,Wendi Beamish,Dianne Chambers,2025-05-13

This year marks the 30th anniversary of the Salamanca Declaration UNESCO 1994 which began the global movement towards inclusive education for students with special educational needs SEN Inclusive education for this student group represents a paradigm shift in providing quality education for all students Around the globe this universal ideal has progressed a strengths based approach to student learning and encouraged mixed ability classrooms

Notwithstanding this milestone recent studies have highlighted persistent disparities in the formulation and implementation of inclusion policies inadequacies in teacher preparation and imbalances in access to resources Factors such as these continue to pose challenges in achieving truly inclusive education for students with SEN Given this context it is both timely and essential to undertake a critical reassessment of the inclusive education agenda for this student group While policy frameworks may emphasize inclusion their real world translation often falls short leading to gaps between intention and realization Moreover the limited enactment of evidence based practices at school and classroom levels continue to impede student engagement and learning Furthermore there is a need to consider how inclusive education interfaces with the broader concepts of diversity equity and individualized learning The goal of this Research Topic is to explore these complex issues identify underlying barriers and promote strategies that can genuinely move inclusive education forward for students with SEN

Schools, Pupils and Special Educational Needs David Galloway,2018-09-03 First published in 1985 This book examines in depth the administrative curricular attitudinal and pastoral care changes that are needed if teachers in ordinary schools are to meet their pupils special needs successfully Drawing on extensive research the author shows that the needs of a minority of special pupils cannot sensibly be seen in isolation from those of the other pupils in the school Schools that cater successfully for the majority of their pupils with special needs Conversely the curriculum and organisational problems in some schools create tensions which are reflected in the pupils poor behaviour and performance These are taken as evidence that the pupils have special needs
