Spectacle Of Us Senate Campaigns:

The Spectacle of U.S. Senate Campaigns Kim Fridkin Kahn, Kim Fridkin, Patrick J. Kenney, 1999-07-21 This book offers a bold comprehensive look at how campaigns actually work from the framing of issues to media coverage to voters decisions In so doing it challenges the common wisdom that campaigns are a noisy symbolic aspect of electoral politics in which the outcomes are determined mainly by economic variables or presidential popularity Campaigns the authors argue do matter in the political process Examining contested U S Senate races between 1988 and 1992 Kim Kahn and Patrick Kenney explore the details of the candidates strategies and messages the content tone and bias of the media coverage and the attitudes and behaviors of potential voters Kahn and Kenney discover that when the competition between candidates is strong political issues become clearly defined and the voting population responds Through a mix of survey data content analysis and interviews the authors demonstrate how competition influences serious political debates in elections Candidates take stands and compare themselves to their opponents The news media offer more coverage of the races presenting evaluations of the candidates positions critiques of their political careers and analyses of their campaign ads In response the voters pay closer attention to the rhetoric of the candidates as they learn more about central campaign themes often adjusting their own voting criteria The book concentrates on Senate races because of the variance in campaign strategy and spending media coverage and voter reactions but many of the findings apply to elections at all levels Fault Lines Jeffery

Political Consultants and Campaigns Jason Johnson, 2018-04-19 Political Consultants and Campaigns One Day to Sell examines the differences between how political science theory suggests campaigns should be run and how political consultants actually run campaigns In the wake of consultants who effortlessly move from campaigners to policymakers the dearth of knowledge about the attitudes beliefs and strategies of the consultants themselves is still a glaring absence in the analysis of American politics How can we purport to know what is happening in American political campaigns if we don t know what is on the minds of the men and women who run them This book provides a clearer understanding of modern day political campaigns by revealing what is on the minds of the people who run them With original data from consultants campaign managers and professional campaign schools author Jason Johnson examines consultant behavior on message formation policy positioning candidate recruitment Internet strategy and negative advertising and compares these practices to existing political science theory This groundbreaking research makes Political Consultants and Campaigns One Day to Sell a must have resource for all students of American politics campaign managers or anyone interested in how political campaigns in America are run

Navigating Gendered Terrain Kelly Dittmar, 2015-01-02 From the presidential level down men and women who run for political office confront different electoral realities In her probing study Navigating Gendered Terrain Kelly Dittmar investigates how gender influences the campaign strategy and behavior of candidates today Concurrently she shows how candidates strategic and tactical decisions can influence the gendered nature of campaign institutions Navigating Gendered Terrain addresses how gender is used to shape how campaigns are waged by influencing insider perceptions of and decisions about effective campaign messages images and tactics within party and political contexts Dittmar uses survey information and interviews with candidates political consultants and other campaign professionals to reveal how gender informed advertising websites and overall presentation to voters respond to stereotypes and perceptions of female and male candidates She closes her book by offering a feminist interpretation of women as candidates and explaining how the unintended outcomes of political campaigns reinforce prevailing ideas about gender and candidacy

Democracy at Risk Stephen Macedo, 2006-05-25 Voter turnout was unusually high in the 2004 U S presidential election At first glance that level of participation largely spurred by war in Iraq and a burgeoning culture war at home might look like vindication of democracy If the recent past is any indication however too many Americans will soon return to apathy and inactivity Clearly all is not well in our civic life Citizens are participating in public affairs too infrequently too unequally and in too few venues to develop and sustain a robust democracy This important new book explores the problem of America s decreasing involvement in its own affairs Democracy at Risk reveals the dangers of civic disengagement for the future of representative democracy The authors all eminent scholars undertake three main tasks documenting recent trends in civic engagement exploring the influence that the design of political institutions and public policies have had on those trends and recommending steps that will increase the amount and quality of civic engagement in America The authors focus their attention on three key areas the electoral process including elections and the way people get involved the impact of location including demographic shifts and changing development patterns and the critical role of nonprofit organizations and voluntary associations including the philanthropy that help keep them going This important project initially sponsored by the American Political Science Association tests the proposition that social science has useful insights on the state of our democratic life Most importantly it charts a course for reinvigorating civic participation in the world s oldest democracy The authors Stephen Macedo Princeton University Yvette Alex Assensoh Indiana University Jeffrey M Berry Tufts Michael Brintnall American Political Science Association David E Campbell Notre Dame Luis Ricardo Fraga
