The Twin Sister Planets Venus and Earth Robert J. Malcuit,2015 This book explains how it came to be that Venus and Earth while very similar in chemical composition zonation size and heliocentric distance from the Sun are very different in surface environmental conditions It is argued here that these differences can be accounted for by planetoid capture processes and the subsequent evolution of the planet satellite system Venus captured a one half moon mass planetoid early in its history in the retrograde direction and underwent its fatal attraction scenario with its satellite Adonis Earth on the other hand captured a moon mass planetoid Luna early in its history in prograde orbit and underwent a benign estrangement scenario with its captured satellite

Mother Earth, 1912 If we lose the Earth, we lose our souls

Bruno Latour, 2024-01-22 In this book Bruno Latour calls upon Christians to join the struggle to avert a climate catastrophe First and foremost Christians need to overcome their lack of interest in earthly things and pay attention to the Earth at a time when it is being neglected He also urges Christians to renew their understanding of their faith in the context of the new image of the world that has emerged from earth system science that of a world in which the myriad of beings that inhabit the world are interdependent and living in close proximity on a slender fragile membrane on the surface of the planet This new image of the world cannot fail to have an impact on the sciences on politics and on religion just as in earlier centuries the cosmology of Copernicus and Galileo upset the old order Latour sees the ecological crisis and the cosmological mutation that it entails as an opportunity to convey anew to the largest possible audience the tradition of Christianity as it has never been appreciated before by bringing to bear the lessons of eschatology on the great crisis that looms before us all

Against a Blackened Sky Jan Steen, 2022-01-15 Against a Blackened Sky the story of one man's falling out with organized religion is told by a future observer whose knowledge of history is incomplete Without sanctioned access to historical accounts the storyteller has pieced together an explanation of man's predicament that seems plausible to him His problem is that he cannot accomplish in his own life the virtues that he admires in the subject of his story In his partial understanding he looks back longingly to a time he feels to be simpler than the complex world he lives in The storyteller is a member of the crew who man a lunar based laser The subject of his narrative Colonel Smith was a member of the pioneering crew who laid the foundation for the establishment of that base In Colonel Smith's day a world now past satellite technology became obsolete The need for a moon based laser became desperate in the pursuit of peace and security Through a series of mishaps Colonel Smith is marooned alone on the moon and must endure a year of solitude It is during that time that he is able to rethink and ultimately to redirect his life When at last he is rescued he returns to an Earth that will be profoundly affected by the work he helped to begin on the moon In a world of tightening alternatives man has not lost his battle with technology but rather has surrendered to it It is the storyteller's lament that man has given up without a struggle Should the story of the teller and of his subject seem ill fated and harshness and gloom seem to hang over the tragedy of their lives it is only because the message of hope has been missed The door has been opened and we have stepped through but the door has not closed behind us We might yet step back through close that door from the other side and find another opened to us Amazing grace
