Mudrooroo Maureen Clark, 2007 Mudrooroo A Likely Story reads the fiction of one of Australia's most controversial and enigmatic literary figures against the backdrop of the likelihood that he assumed an Aboriginal identity to which he was not entitled As he is neither black nor white Colin Johnson aka a Mudrooroo writes on issues of identity and belonging from the position of an outsider The book argues that the experimental nature of Johnson's creative body of work coupled with the complexities of his in-between status mean that both the man and his writing evade neat categorisation within mainstream literary criticism Also examined here is how the denial of his white mother impacts upon the gender politics of Johnson's fiction in a way that opens up exciting new possibilities for critical comment and textual analysis Back cover Maternal Geographies Jennufer L. Johnson, 2019-05-01 This collection broaches the intersections of critical motherhood studies and feminist geography Contributors demonstrate that an important dimension of the social construction of motherhood is how mothering happens in space and place leading to the articulation of diverse maternal geographies Through 16 concise chapters divided into three thematic sections the contributors provide an account of motherhood and mothering as spatial practices that are embedded in relations of power across time and place While some contributors explore how dominant discourses of motherhood seek to keep mothers in their place others take up the notion of maternal geographies as productive in their own right and follow their subjects as they create a new sense of place Collectively the authors demonstrate that mothers are produced and regulated as subjects in relation to space and place and also that practices of mothering produce spatial relationships Torts on Three Continents Kylie Burns, Jodi Gardner, Jonathan Morgan, Sandy

Steel,2024-08-06 Professor Jane Stapleton is one of the world's leading experts on causation and has had a profound impact on tort law scholarship both in terms of the incredible range of topics she has contributed to and across the multiple countries she has worked in. Torts on Three Continents Honouring Jane Stapleton brings together a group of scholars from Stapleton's home country Australia from the United Kingdom where she spent much of her professional career and the United States where she has made such a significant contribution to celebrate and honour her work. Torts on Three Continents reveals the impressive and enviable breadth of Jane Stapleton's scholarship while contributing to many of the ongoing and traditional debates in tort. The volume is split into four parts. The first part focuses on general themes that arise in Stapleton's work including the academic influence on judges, the role of insurance in compensation, the impact of vulnerability on tort law and liability of public authorities. The second part considers aspects of liability in the tort of negligence including duties of care for psychiatric harm. The third part is dedicated completely to causation with three chapters from authors in three different countries reflecting on the impact of Stapleton's work in this area. The final section covers a variety of different aspects of tort law and compensation systems including harms committed in the public interest, damage in economic torts, statutory product liability reforms and alternative compensation scheme design. Powerful and thought provoking, this book will provide its readers with an appreciation of the magnitude of Jane Stapleton's contribution across the common law world and a novel perspective on some of the more modern challenges faced in tort law.

Australia's Doomed-Race Protective Myth Grant Rodwell,2024-12-27 Periodically in Australian society racial chasms emerge portraying the great divide between Indigenous and non Indigenous Australians exposing the sustained influence of the doomed race protective myth and its residue. This book exposes that a long and powerful influence on Australian society, economy, culture and history has been the doomed race protective myth. While most nations harbour protective myths of one form or another, often endorsed by Australian governments at all levels and steeped in a cruel racism and inter alia a quest for pastoral lands, Australia's doomed race protective myth has asserted an undue influence on First Nations people. This book argues the doomed race protective myth warped the vision of power elites, politicians and bureaucrats. For centuries sustained by representations in official and public history, schools, churches and a whole host of public institutions, the doomed race protective myth has been voiced by almost every facet of non Indigenous Australian society with pastoral Australia particularly benefiting. This book opens fresh vistas to the continuing racism in Australian society through an examination of the long politicised doomed race protective myth which was foisted on First Nations people and with vested interests in pastoral Australia. Key events in Australia's race relations history such as the 2023 First Nations Voice to Parliament Referendum have new light shed on them. Transnational themes relevant to Indigenous history have been examined. People with an interest in non Indigenous Indigenous affairs, academics, politicians and bureaucrats and students will enjoy this book. Australian Literature Graham Huggan,2007-09-27 The Oxford Studies in Postcolonial Literatures series offers stimulating and accessible introductions to definitive topics and key genres and regions within the rapidly diversifying field of postcolonial literary studies in English In a provocative contribution to the series Graham Huggan presents fresh readings of an outstanding sometimes deeply unsettling national literature whose writers and readers just as unmistakably belong to the wider world Australian literature is not the unique province of Australian readers and critics nor is its exclusive task to provide an internal commentary on changing national concerns Huggan s book adopts a transnational approach motivated by postcolonial interests in which contemporary ideas taken from postcolonial criticism and critical race theory are productively combined and imaginatively transformed Rejecting the fashionable view that Australia is not and never will be postcolonial Huggan argues on the contrary that Australian literature like other settler literatures requires close attention to postcolonial methods and concerns A postcolonial approach to Australian literature he suggests is more than just a case for a more inclusive nationalism it also involves a general acknowledgement of the nation s changed relationship to an increasingly globalized world As such the book helps to deprovincialize Australian literary studies Australian Literature also contributes to debates about the continuing history of racism in Australia a history in which the nation s literature has played a constitutive role as both product and producer of racial tensions and anxieties nowhere more visible than in the discourse it has produced about race both within and beyond the national context

Just Words? Bernadette M. Brennan, 2008 Over the past decade Australians have witnessed a significant shift to more insular and conservative economic ethical and cultural norms The problems of valuing and achieving justice seem more acute than ever yet the solutions to those problems are not obvious nor are those in power taking the lead In this powerful collection Australian writers including Gail Jones Eva Sallis and Frank Brennan explore the relationship between writing and justice a relationship utterly dependent on informed ethical readers These essays from poets essayists academics playwrights critics and novelists demonstrate how it is possible for writing to articulate concerns of justice enlighten the broader community and move citizens to action

Genocide of Indigenous Peoples Samuel Totten, Robert K. Hitchcock, 2011-12-31 An estimated 350 to 600 million indigenous people reside across the globe Numerous governments fail to recognize its indigenous peoples living within their borders It was not until the latter part of the twentieth century that the genocide of indigenous peoples became a major focus of human rights activists non governmental organizations international development and finance institutions such as the United Nations and the World Bank and indigenous and other community based organizations Scholars and activists began paying greater attention to the struggles between Fourth World peoples and First Second and Third World states because of illegal actions of nation states against indigenous peoples indigenous groups passive and active resistance to top down development and concerns about the impacts of transnational forces including what is now known as globalization This volume offers a clear message for genocide scholars and others concerned with crimes against humanity and genocide much greater attention must be paid to the plight of all peoples indigenous and otherwise no matter how small in scale how little known how invisible or hidden from view

Memory, History, Nation Susannah Radstone, 2017-09-04 In the last decade a focus on memory in the human sciences has encouraged new approaches to the study of the past As the humanities and social sciences have put into question their own claims to objectivity authority and universality memory has appeared to offer a way of engaging with knowledge of the past as inevitably partial subjective and local At the same time memory and memorial practices have become sites of contestation and the politics of memory are increasingly prominent This inter disciplinary volume demonstrates from a range of perspectives the complex cultural work and struggles over meaning that lie at the heart of what we call memory The chapters in this volume offer a complex awareness of the workings of memory and the ways in which different or changing histories may be explained They explore the relation between individual and social memory between real and imaginary event and fantasy history and myth Contradictory accounts or memories in direct contradiction to the historical record are not always the sign of a repressive authority attempting to cover something up The tension between memory as a safeguard against attempts to silence dissenting voices and memory's own implication in that silencing runs throughout the book Topics covered range from the Basque country to Cambodia from Hungary to South Africa from the Finnish Civil War to the cult Jim Jarmusch movie Dead Man from the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame to Australia Part I Transforming Memory is concerned primarily with the social and personal transmission of memory across time and generations Part II Remembering Suffering Trauma and History brings the after effects of catastrophe to the fore Part III Patterning the National Past the relation between nation and memory is the central issue Part IV And Then Silence reflects on the complex and multiple meaning of silence and oblivion wherein amnesia is often used as a figure for the denial of shameful Handbook of Indigenous
