Tales of Two Cities Camilla Townsend, 2022-02-24 Parallel histories of workers in two port cities Baltimore and Guayaquil illustrate divergent paths in the development of the Americas The United States and the countries of Latin America were all colonized by Europeans yet in terms of economic development the U S far outstripped Latin America beginning in the nineteenth century Observers have often tried to account for this disparity many of them claiming that differences in cultural attitudes toward work explain the US's greater prosperity In this innovative study however Camilla Townsend challenges the traditional view that North Americans succeeded because of the so called Protestant work ethic and argues instead that they prospered relative to South Americans because of differences in attitudes towards workers that evolved in the colonial era Townsend builds her study around workers lives in two similar port cities in the 1820s and 1830s Through the eyes of the young Frederick Douglass in Baltimore Maryland and an Indian girl named Ana Yagual in Guayaquil Ecuador she shows how differing attitudes toward race and class in North and South America affected local ways of doing business This empirical research clarifies the significant relationship between economic culture and racial identity and its long term effects
