Indigenous Storytelling and Connections to the Land Francesca Mussi, 2024-09-13 This book builds on the perspective that for Indigenous peoples relations to the land are familial intimate intergenerational spiritual instructive and life nourishing and it is these relations that Western societies sought to destroy as part of their colonial projects of territorial conquest and exploitation of resources Positioning storytelling as a research methodology and a model of decolonial practice this edited collection seeks to explore the following key questions how does Indigenous storytelling contribute to understanding Indigenous identity and the crucial role of the land in Indigenous ways of life How can Indigenous storytelling subvert colonial narratives of the land How can Indigenous storytelling contribute to addressing colonial exploitations of the land and its resources Can Indigenous storytelling become a rich mode for the investigation of current climate crises And finally how does storytelling assist Indigenous peoples in restoring their intimate relations to the land and its natural gifts Through critical analysis of a unique range of Indigenous storytelling practices including fiction performative art new media platforms archaeological findings and personal live experienced stories this collection aims to examine the interplay between colonialism and current environmental challenges and to expose the impacts past present and future of Western worldviews on Indigenous connections to the land whilst simultaneously bringing to the fore Indigenous ethos of care and land custodianship

Super Dimensions in Globalisation and Education David R. Cole, Christine Woodrow, 2016-02-05 This volume is the first major production of the globalisation research strand of the Centre for Educational Research at Western Sydney University This book makes a significant contribution to the theory of and research in globalisation and education and tackles the topics of superdiversity and supercomplexity The book s thesis is that the effects of globalisation on education can only be understood if the specific yet complex conditions of globalisation in education are investigated The book takes an international approach to understanding globalisation and does not restrict itself to just one methodological or theoretical plane of investigation Education is one of these frontline domains in which the effects of superdiversity cannot be dismissed minimized or denied The continuously increasing complexity of learning environments is raising critical issues at every level from description over analysis to theoretical generalization and this book is a first and fruitful attempt at charting these waters This pioneering book will remain a key text for many years to come Jan Bloomaert Professor of Language Culture and Globalization and Director of the Babylon Center Tilburg University the Netherlands This provocative collection works from two premises that today there is superdiversity in our globalised world and related is a supercomplexity of theoretical and methodological approaches The collection proffers multifarious challenges for educational theory research and practice in working with through and across these two premises As such Super Dimensions in Globalisation and Education is essential reading for all educational researchers whatever their interests or location Professor Bob Lingard The University of Queensland Australia This is a highly imaginative book that stops flat earth and convergence arguments dead in their tracks Its genius is to bring super complexity and super diversity into a conversation with each other and with education and in doing so shed light on the numerous and unexpected ways in which global processes are shaping education in revealing and compelling ways Any scholar concerned with globalisation and education will find Super Dimensions in Globalisation and Education a must have on their reading list Professor Susan Robertson Director of the Centre for Globalisation Education and Social Futures University of Bristol UK This is an absorbing and compelling collection It takes readers on a kaleidoscopic journey through various intricate expressions of the nexus between globalisation and education And it offers multiple ways that such expressions can be thought and rethought In transcending conventional categorisations it invites educators to do so too Professor Jane Kenway Australian Professorial Fellow Australian Research Council Education Faculty Monash University Australia knowledge TEK frameworks this book recognizes that indigenous ecological knowledge contributes to our understanding of how we live in our world our world views and in turn the ways in which humans adapt to climate change As an industrialized nation Aotearoa New Zealand A NZ has responsibilities and obligations to other Pacific dwellers including its indigenous populations In this context this book seeks to discuss how A NZ can benefit from the wider Pacific strategies already in place how to meet its global obligations to reducing GHG and how A NZ can utilize MEK to achieve substantial inroads into adaptation strategies and practices In all respects M ori tribal groups here are well placed to be key players in adaptation strategies policies and practices that are referenced through M ori Iwi traditional knowledge

M.I.9 An Official History,2024-11-30 It was every British serviceman s duty be he soldier sailor or airman to attempt to evade capture if stranded behind enemy lines or escape if captured As there were potentially thousands of men who would find themselves cut off or captured during the Second World War a branch of military intelligence M I 9 was set up in 1939 to instruct servicemen in evasion and escape techniques Such was the success of M I 9 and the determination and ingenuity of individuals and groups about 35 000 Allied military personnel escaped PoW camps or evaded capture and made their way to Allied or neutral countries How this highly secret unit was set up and organized and how its great success was achieved was documented by M I 9 officers towards the end of the war and is published here for the first time The history includes details of the lectures given to troops on how to avoid capture if on the run in enemy occupied territory more than 2 000 lectures were given to over half a million men and of secret equipment issued to them to help them escape such as the well know silk maps and small but comprehensive escape kits When servicemen escaped and returned to the UK they were interrogated by specially selected M I 9 officers and their stories were used to show troops how they too could evade capture These provide some of the most fascinating and often funny stories to come out of the Second World War How for example one man had to cross a bridge over a canal in Holland where a German sentry was stood on the other side As he considered his options a Dutch woman approached pushing her baby in a pram The man explained that he was British and the lady handed him the pram and put her arm through his and together they crossed the bridge and passed the sentry On another occasion at a railway station an evader attracted the attention of a German officer A group of French women arrived and the man rushed over to the group embraced one of the women and asked them to speak to him in French This they did pretending he was their friend and the officer turned away Such stories helped show servicemen how to forge documents how to travel through enemy occupied countries without being detected what disguises could be used that would not attract the attention of the enemy and also provided lists of local people willing to help escapers and this included Pope Pius XII who actually had a private meeting with one of the escapers in the Vatican The troops were also instructed how to write coded messages in letters to the UK from PoW camps All this is revealed in this utterly fascinating book

Against the Seas Mary Soderstrom,2023-02-28 An incredible read While unflinching in her analysis Soderstrom nevertheless gifts us with a message of hope and resilience MAUDE BARLOW activist and author of Still Hopeful Lessons from a Lifetime of Activism What can we learn about coping with rising sea levels from ancient times The scenario we are facing is scary within a few decades sea levels around the world may well rise by a metre or more as glaciers and ice caps melt due to climate change Large parts of our coastal cities will be flooded the basic outline of our world will be changed and torrential rains will present their own challenges But this is not the first time that people have had to cope with threatening waters because sea levels have been rising for thousands of years ever since the end of the last Ice Age Stories told by the Indigenous people in Australia and on the Pacific coast of North America and those found in the Bible and the Epic of Gilgamesh as well as Roman and Chinese histories all bear witness to just how traumatic these experiences were The responses to these challenges varied people adapted by building dikes canals and seawalls by resorting to prayer or magic and very often by moving out of the way of the rushing waters Against the Seas explores these stories as well as the various measures being taken today to combat rising waters focusing on five regions Indonesia Shanghai the Sundarbans of Bangladesh the Salish Sea and the estuary of the St Lawrence River What happened in the past and what is being tried today may help us in the future and if nothing else give us hope that we will survive

Palm Island Joanne Watson, 2010 In November 2004 Mulrunji Doomadgee's tragic death triggered civil unrest within the Indigenous community of Palm Island This led to the first prosecution of a Queensland police officer in relation to a death in custody In Palm Island Joanne Watson gives the first substantial history of the island from pre contact to the present

International Perspectives in Feminist Ecocriticism Greta Gaard, Simon Estok, Serpil Oppermann, 2013-06-07 Exploring environmental literature from a feminist perspective this volume presents a diversity of feminist ecocritical approaches to affirm the continuing contributions relevance and necessity of a feminist perspective in environmental literature culture and science Feminist ecocriticism has a substantial history with roots in second and third wave feminist literary criticism women's environmental writing and social change activism and eco cultural critique and yet both feminist and ecofeminist literary perspectives have been marginalized The essays in this collection build on the belief that the repertoire of violence conceptual and literal toward nature and women comprising our daily lives must become central to our ecocritical discussions and that basic literacy in theories about ethics are fundamental to these discussions The book offers an international collection of scholarship that includes ecocritical theory literary criticism and ecocultural analyses bringing a diversity of perspectives in terms of gender sexuality and race Reconnecting with the histories of feminist and ecofeminist literary criticism and utilizing new developments in postcolonial ecocriticism animal studies queer theory feminist and gender studies cross cultural and international ecocriticism this timely volume develops a continuing and international feminist ecocritical perspective on literature language and culture

explores the fascinating ways Arctic and Antarctic communities have measured time in regions with prolonged periods of darkness or daylight It delves into how these societies adapted their timekeeping methods to survive and thrive in extreme latitudes offering a unique perspective on the intersection of world history Earth sciences and cultural adaptation For example indigenous Arctic communities relied on celestial observations and animal migration patterns while Antarctic research stations transitioned from mechanical clocks to atomic time for precise scientific measurements The book examines timekeeping through the lens of indigenous Arctic traditions the evolution of scientific measurement in Antarctic research and the cultural significance of cyclical events in both polar regions It highlights the resilience of these communities and their deep connection to their environment Understanding these methods provides insights into how culture environment and human perception intertwine The book progresses by first introducing traditional timekeeping then examining scientific approaches and finally investigating the cultural importance of annual cycles supported by ethnographic studies and historical accounts

News Coverage of Global Disasters Michael McCluskey, 2020-11-13 News Coverage of Global Disasters Journalism's Power to Aid Healing and Recovery addresses an underexplored aspect of news arguing that journalism helps people heal and recover in the aftermath of significant traumas This comparative analysis draws from local and international news in eight countries around the world that suffered a natural disaster in 2018 This book evaluates ten news themes that aid healing coping hope and recovery during and after a natural disaster Analysis shows that these ten characteristics are a common element within news transcending national borders McCluskey brings together contemporary theories of news choice and practice with examination of the journalistic culture within each country Analysis also includes contextual and structural factors within each country and national disaster Scholars interested in journalism crisis communication and media studies will find this book particularly useful

Kaiju Task Force: Code Omega Season One Book 1 Benjamin Stetser, 2025-04-01 Kaiju Task Force Code Omega Season One Book 1 was my chance to go back and do a soft reboot to the Kaiju Task Force lore I love my stories but at the time I had no idea what I was doing I was just winging it Since then I've learned so much and I wanted to take the opportunity to redo things better So I hope you forgive me as I attempt to give you a better story On Earth 856 a world where dinosaurs never went extinct and Kaiju reign supreme Omega the Queen of the Ocean prepares to bring forth the next generation of her royal bloodline Pregnant and searching for a safe place to lay her eggs she basks on the shores of a prehistoric coastline unaware that a deadly predator lurks in the depths Glacirath a powerful and ruthless Kaiju she has never encountered before sees her vulnerability and seizes the opportunity to strike As the brutal battle unfolds Omega fights valiantly but the strain of her pregnancy leaves her at a disadvantage Just when it seems she may fall her mate Rendakar arrives clashing with Glacirath in a desperate attempt to protect her Forced to make an agonizing choice Omega flees into the ocean knowing she must survive for the sake of her unborn offspring But as she swims deeper a strange force pulls at her senses a rift a tear in reality itself Drawn toward the anomaly she is suddenly and violently sucked into another world When she emerges she finds herself in an unfamiliar ocean our world off the coast of Alaska The water tastes different the creatures here are small and fragile and best of all she senses no other Kaiju Trapped in a foreign reality Omega must adapt survive and find a new sanctuary to lay her eggs She is a mother now and nothing will stand in her way As humanity scrambles to comprehend the arrival of this colossal force a new era dawns one where Kaiju walk among us And Omega will defend her offspring at all costs      How to Survive on Land and Sea

Frank C. Craighead, 1956      Learning from the Lives of Amazing People Janice Gudeman, 1988-12      Humans and Aquatic Animals in Early Modern America and Africa Cristina Brito, 2025-10-01 This book deals with peoples practices perceptions emotions and feelings towards aquatic animals their ecosystems and nature on the early modern Atlantic coasts by addressing exploitation use fear empathy otherness and indifference in the relationships established with aquatic environments and resources by Indigenous Peoples and Europeans It focuses on large aquatic fauna especially manatees but also sharks sea turtles seals and others as they were hunted consumed venerated conceptualised and recorded by different societies across the early colonial Americas and West Africa Through a cross cultural approach drawing on concepts and analytical methods from marine environmental history the blue humanities and animal studies this book addresses more than human systems where ecologies geographies cosmogonies and cultures are an entangled web of interdependencies
