Gladwin County Rick Sigsby, 2008 Gladwin County named after a British commander of Fort Detroit is situated in upper mid Michigan Settled at the beginnings of the Civil War this area has been blessed with the ability to survive and thrive from its natural resources and the hardy pioneer and entrepreneurial spirit of its people The white pine forests provided much of the wood for homes downstate and the railroads brought in the people to fill lumber camps and towns with names like Cedar now the city of Gladwin or Grand Forks now known as Beaverton and long lost crossroads such as Lyle Hard Luck and Podunk As the lumbering era came to a close the rails brought in farmers to replace the woodsmen The horses came out of the woods to plow the fields When the tractor replaced the horse oil was discovered and a new boom began But that soon went bust and Gladwin once again reinvented itself by becoming the thermoforming capital of the world The area is ripe with waterways rivers and lakes both natural and man made Once clogged with logs and now bulging with watercraft many of the lumber camps from a century ago today have become new recreational settlements

Houston, Samuel Maxwell Harrington, James Pennewill, William Henry Boyce, William Watson Harrington, Charles L. Terry, William J. Storey, 1875 Town Development , 1909 Excursions with Thoreau Edward F. Mooney, 2015-10-22

Excursions with Thoreau is a major new exploration of Thoreau's writing and thought that is philosophical yet sensitive to the literary and religious Edward F. Mooney's excursions through passages from Walden Cape Cod and his late essay Walking reveal Thoreau as a miraculous writer, artist, and religious adept. Of course, Thoreau remains the familiar political activist and environmental philosopher, but in these fifteen excursions we discover new terrain. Among the notable themes that emerge are Thoreau's grappling with underlying affliction, his pursuit of wonder as ameliorating affliction, his use of the enigmatic image of a child of the mist, his exalting sympathy with intelligence over plain knowledge, and his preferring befitting reverie not argument as the way to be carried to better, cleaner perceptions of reality. Mooney's aim is to bring alive Thoreau's moments of reverie and insight and to frame his philosophy as poetic and episodic rather than discursive and systematic.
